Moscow Officially Admits Fighting in Outskirts of City

Invading Tank Unit Wiped Out, Official Statement Declares

By EDDY GILMORE
MOSCOW, Thursday, Sept. 17. (AP)—The Russians announced officially today that German shock troops had battered into the northwestern outskirts of Stalingrad where the Red army and civilians were battling desperately to save that southern arsenal city which is the gateway to Astrakhan on the Caspian Sea.

A midnight communique which for the first time placed the fighting in the city's outskirts said:

"On the northwest outskirts of Stalingrad our troops fought heavy actions against the enemy. In one sector, individual groups of enemy tanks drove wedges into our defenses, but were wiped out in the heavy fighting that ensued."

(The German propaganda ministry has informed the German press in Berlin that a special announcement, presumably dealing with Stalingrad, would be issued from Adolf Hitler's headquarters within twenty-four hours. Exchange Telegram reported from Zurich, Switzerland.)

No Retreat for Reds
The Russians, fighting against the flaming backdrop of Stalingrad which has been heavily assaulted by Nazi dive-bombers, were under orders to stand or die. There appeared to be no retreat, either, for the civilian army inside the Volga river city named for Premier Joseph Stalin.

The Germans were bringing up reserves steadily to replace the thousands of fallen Nazis, the Russians said. Among these were Rumanians, and the communique said one whole Rumanian regiment was routed in the fight outside the city.

In another sector Soviet artillery was said to have wiped out thirteen Nazi tanks, thirty-four motor vehicles, and a battalion of German infantry. Thirty-two German planes also were reported shot down in air combat.

Down in the middle Caucasus the Russians reported capture of a "tactically important populated place" in the Moxdok area, and the repulse of German counterattacks on the south bank of a river there. The German goal in this area is Grozny, less than sixty miles southward.

Push Down Seacoast
A German push down the Black Sea coastal highway from Novorossiysk in the western Caucasus also was reported, but details of that fight were lacking.

The Russians said they had captured a fortified German position in the Sinyavino area in the Leningrad defense zone far to the north, and had killed 500 Germans in defensive fighting south of Voronezh on the upper Don.

But the battle for Stalingrad, vital Russian communications hub for the southern Red army, overshadowed all these other sectors.

Farm Machinery To Be Rationed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16. (AP)—Rationing of new farm machinery and equipment was ordered today by Secretary of Agriculture Wickard "to control the distribution of the limited supply now on hand to insure its greatest possible contribution toward meeting the goals in our food-for-freedom program."

The order, to take effect tomorrow, will govern sales for the rest of 1942 and Wickard said it would be followed later by an order regulating 1943 sales.

Associated Press Correspondent Describes Sinking of Yorktown

(Editor's Note: An Associated Press reporter, now back from the war zone, was on a cruiser with the United States Pacific fleet during the entire battle of Midway and witnessed the game stand of the carrier Yorktown which the navy today announced as sunk. Following are excerpts from his log of that day and his impressions of the epic battle.)

By WENDELL WEBB
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 16. (AP)—The destruction of the carrier Yorktown, announced by the navy in Washington today, provided one of those pathetically indelible memories of war that bring on cold sweats in the dead of night.

It happened more than three months ago—months in which there was good reason to believe the Japanese did not know the ship was sunk—but the stunning drama of the moment has never faded. Flashing cannon, the great beach-

Kathryne Batchelder Admits Plot To Hold Nancy Joyce

NEW YORK, Sept. 16. (AP)—P. E. Foxworth, assistant FBI director, said tonight that an attempt to extort $30,000 from a wealthy Pelham, N. Y., family in an amateurish attempt by a 23-year-old nursemaid to kidnap a four and half-year-old child failed when the nursemaid lost her courage.

Foxworth said that the nurse, Kathryne Batchelder, employed by Albert G. Joyce, Jr., of Pelham, was taken into custody Tuesday. The nurse, Foxworth said, held the Joyce's daughter Nancy for twelve hours while she attempted to extort $30,000 from the child's grandmother, Mrs. Emily Plippen of Dallas, Tex., who was visiting the Joyce home.

Alone in Conspiracy
Foxworth said the nursemaid admitted to authorities having written a ransom letter received at the Joyce home a short while after she disappeared with the child Tuesday morning. Also admitted, the FBI said, that she alone was responsible for the attempted extortion. The nurse left the Joyce home (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Explosion Rocks New Haven, Conn.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 16. (AP)—At least twenty persons were injured just before midnight tonight in a mighty explosion at the plant of the Winchester Repeating Arms Company which shook the entire city.

County Coroner James J. Corrigan said that "one girl was injured so badly she probably will die and at least twenty others were hurt."

First reports were that no one was killed. Five ambulances from city hospitals took the injured away from the blasted section of the plant, which was so closely guarded by police that the chief of the Connecticut Bureau of the Federal Bureau of Investigation was at first denied admission.

The blast was heard as far away as Branford, twelve miles from New Haven's center, and some city residents said the concussion knocked them from bed as they were sleeping.

Van A. Bittner, representing the CIO, and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, appeared before the Senate Banking committee and endorsed the general principle of pending price and wage control legislation.

Earlier Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, told the committee that ceiling prices on farm crops must consist of parity plus labor costs. Otherwise, he asserted, farmers may be forced to let their crops go unharvested. Parity is a farm price level calculated to give the farmers (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Become Accustomed to Bomb Attacks on the Solomons

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA, Thursday, Sept. 17. (AP)—Japanese jungle fighters strongly resuming their push toward Port Moresby in New Guinea, now have reached the area of Ioribaiwa, a village only thirty-two air line miles from the Allied base, a spokesman said today.

GUADALCANAL, SOLOMON ISLANDS, Sept. 7. (Delayed). (AP)—Exactly one month after blasting the Japanese out of Guadalcanal, Tulagi and four other islands in the Solomon group, United States Marines are itching for the signal to step out on another invasion job.

While standing by, they are flushing scattered hundreds of hungry Japanese out of the bush, keeping beach guns ready to meet a counter-invasion, and tying up loose ends in general.

Their daily life is rough and raw—just a few jumps this side of the primitive and continual air raid warnings and occasional naval bombardments keep the sense of danger keenly alive.

Bombs don't always follow the warnings, but often enough to make anyone in his right mind take cover.

Japs Still Landing
More and more in the last thirty days the marines' existence in the Solomons has settled into a sort of routine, but it is never a dull grind because the Japanese, true to their reputation for tenacity, determination and willingness to take big risks, have persisted in making new landings—not in great numbers, but landings—and each one constitutes a threat until every enemy party can be found and crushed.

Edward Haight Will Get Quick Trial in Brutal Murder Case

By JOHN B. LEWIS
BEDFORD CENTER, N. Y., Sept. 16. (AP)—Reflecting the grim, but "emotional cold sober" attitude of this grief-stricken town, District Attorney Elbert Gallagher tonight promised quick justice for a youth accused as the kidnap-murderer of two small sisters.

"This gruesome case will go to the Westchester county grand jury as quickly as we can prepare the necessary documents," Gallagher said. "It's a clear-cut case of the most cruel sort of crime."

Edward Haight, 17-year-old Stamford, Conn., laborer who confessed binding, gagging and raping Helen Lynch, 8, and Margaret, 7, after luring them into a stolen station wagon Monday night, was held without bail by justices of the peace in two separate arraignments, to await action of the grand jury.

He was taken to the Eastview county jail, a stone's throw from the grasslands hospital where the mother of the slain children has been a tuberculosis patient for six years. If indicted and convicted Haight faces the death penalty or life imprisonment.

Chief of Police Frank Mallette of the town of Bedford, where the children lived and were criminally attacked, said no fancy psychological terms were needed to describe Haight.

"He's just a plain damned no-good punk," Mallette said.

Virginia Legislature To Hear Plan To Liquidate State's Debt

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 16. (AP)—Governor Darden, after a conference tonight with Senate and House leaders and state officials, issued a call for a special session of the General Assembly to convene at noon Tuesday, September 29, to consider a plan to liquidate the state debt.

The governor gave no details of his plan in his brief public statement, but the unobligated surplus in the general fund of the treasury and funds in the hands of the sinking fund commission now far exceed the total of the state debt.

Western Limited Crashes into Freight Near Ashmore, Illinois

CHARLESTON, Ill., Sept. 16. (AP)—Four persons were killed today and at least seven others injured when the seven-car Southwestern Limited, swift passenger train on the New York-St. Louis route, rammed head-on into a standing oil freight train one and a half miles east of Ashmore, Ill.

The dead were listed by Coroner Horace V. Clark of Coles county as: Thomas Kane, Indianapolis, passenger engineer; J. D. Watzen, Indianapolis, passenger fireman; W. W. Watzen, Indianapolis, a railway express messenger who was in the first car of the limited.

All Governors Asked To Co-operate in Tire Saving Plans

BALTIMORE, Sept. 16. (AP)—Following a meeting of the Defense committee of the Council of State Governments in the Baltimore office of Governor O'Connor today, a telegram was sent to all governors asking fullest cooperation with the Baruch committee's recommendation for a thirty-five mile an hour maximum speed limit and for decreased use of automobiles.

The telegram was signed by O'Connor, chairman of the governors' conference, and by Frank Bane, executive director of the Council of State Governments.

Present were representatives from New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia and North Carolina, as well as Maryland.

Plans were devised for handling manpower problems in the various states, motor transportation, civilian defense and use of state surpluses.

many instances because of war conditions. "I am calling a special session of the General Assembly in order to lay before them a plan to liquidate the public debt," Governor Darden said after tonight's meeting. "The treasurer and I have for some time been at work on the program to be submitted. Changes in the provisions of the sinking fund and an appropriation of the monies needed for the operation require certain changes in the statutes covering these subjects. "The special session is being called to deal with the public debt. However, I shall submit such other wartime emergency legislation as may be deemed necessary."

MARINES HOLDING POSITIONS ON GUADALCANAL, NAVY SAYS

Two Japanese Cruisers Reported Damaged; Shore Installations at Rekata Bay Bombed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16. (AP)—The navy announced tonight that fighting between Japanese and marine forces on Guadalcanal island had decreased in intensity and also reported that aircraft based on the island had damaged two enemy cruisers.

Marines on Guadalcanal, principal American base in the southeastern Solomons, "are still holding their positions," a navy communique said. The communique:

"South Pacific (All dates given are east longitude)
Marines Hold Positions
"1. The intensity of the fighting on Guadalcanal island has decreased and the marines are still holding their positions. Marine patrols continue active."

"2. On September 15, two heavy army bombers (Boeing Flying Fortresses) attacked shore installations at Rekata Bay on the northwest coast of Santa Isabel Island. Fires were observed as a result of this bombing."

"3. On September 16, navy and marine corps dive bombers (Douglas 'Devastators') and navy torpedo planes (Grumman 'Avengers') attacked Japanese cruisers and destroyers south of Choiseul Island. One cruiser was damaged by a torpedo and a second by bombs."

The navy had reported only last night that the Japanese had greatly intensified their attempts to recapture United States positions on Guadalcanal island and that heavy fighting had been in progress since the night of September 12-13.

Invaders Reinforced
The enemy troops on Guadalcanal had been reinforced, the navy disclosed, and were receiving strong support from their naval and air units based in the northwestern Solomons.

Tonight's communique taken in conjunction with the previous report indicated that the marines so far had been entirely successful in repelling all attacks and that the situation, for the moment at least, was well in hand.

Conscription of All for War Favored by Legion Commander

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 16. (AP)—"The necessity for this is not something that is in prospect," the black haired, dark eyed commander of the American Legion's first national convention since America entered the war.

Its national commander, Lynn U. Stambaugh, a Fargo, N. D., attorney, led the organization's renewed and vigorous demand for enactment of its long-sponsored Universal Service bill, authorizing the drafting of manpower, labor and industry alike for war.

Calling the all-out war effort "a piecemeal process so far," Stambaugh in an interview said the purpose of the three day convention, opening Saturday, would be to arouse the nation to the urgent necessity of dropping everything for the war.

He said the principle of Universal Service, as long advocated by the Legion, had been only partially adopted in the war effort, and added that his organization still stands "on the premises of equal service for all with excess profits to none."

"The necessity for this is not something that is in prospect," the black haired, dark eyed commander of the American Legion's first national convention since America entered the war.

"The magnitude of the war, the strength and diabolical cunning of our enemies, their determination, and yes—let us be frank with ourselves—their superior skill at waging war—add up to only one thing. It will take everything we have to win the war and our failure to give our all means losing it."

Japs Paid High For Destruction Of U. S. Carrier

Yorktown Sunk after Enemy Lost at Least a Dozen Ships

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—The mighty aircraft carrier Yorktown, veteran of much Pacific fighting with destruction of at least a dozen Japanese ships to her credit, was sunk during the battle of Midway in June while United States naval and air forces were scoring their greatest victory of the war over an enemy armada bent upon conquest of the Hawaiian Islands.

Loss of the 19,900-ton floating airbase and a few of her crew as a result of Japanese air and submarine attacks was announced by the Navy today. The disclosure ended weeks of strictest secrecy ordered by the high command to prevent Japanese use of the knowledge in estimating American naval forces available for operations in the conquest of the Solomon Islands.

One of Seven Carriers
The Yorktown, which had a normal complement of eighty-five planes and 2,072 officers and men, was one of seven carriers with which the United States entered the war. Five are left, the Lexington having been lost in the battle of the Coral Sea in May.

The remaining five, considered at least numerically equal to and qualitatively superior to Japan's present aircraft carrier force, are the Enterprise, sister ship of the Yorktown; Saratoga, sister ship of the Lexington; and the Wasp, Hornet and Ranger.

The battered and torn Yorktown which had participated in the Coral Sea fighting along with the Lexington, went down somewhere between Midway Island and a haven—presumably Pearl Harbor—to which salvage crews were trying desperately to remove her. The blows which doomed her were delivered by a Japanese submarine at the very moment when the salvage force began to hold strong hope of getting her to port.

Submarine Believed Sunk
But the submarine itself is believed to have been sunk, in turn, the navy said, just as the Japanese carrier whose planes first successfully attacked the Yorktown had been destroyed two days before by the Yorktown's own aircraft.

The epic of the Yorktown's end began on the afternoon of June 4, which was the climatic day of the Midway engagement. The Japanese had already lost three of their best carriers, the Kaga, Akagi, and Soryu, when a force of thirty-six planes from a fourth, the Hiryu, as yet undamaged, roared in toward the Yorktown.

Before they could reach the carrier, eleven of eighteen Japanese bombers in the attacking group were shot down by American fighters. Seven got through the first fighter screen, but three of those were destroyed as they approached close to their target. The four that were left scored three direct dive-bomb hits and escaped.

Writer Sees Attack
Wendell Webb, Associated Press correspondent with the Pacific fleet who saw this attack, reported that the carrier took fire and gave off a huge cloud of black smoke. Witnesses despaired of the ship's survival. But then the fire was brought under control and the carrier and her escort got under way again.

A few minutes later between twelve and fifteen enemy torpedo planes with fighter protection followed up the first attack. United States fighter planes got four to seven of these and anti-aircraft fire accounted for three more. But five succeeded in launching their torpedoes before they too were destroyed and the resulting hits put the Yorktown completely out of action.

"The most distinct memory I have of the moment is that every gun on the Yorktown was blazing," Webb wrote a few hours after experiencing the hell of this battle. "She was putting up a scrap if any ship ever did."

Yorktown Badly Damaged
The Yorktown was so badly damaged that she listed dangerously and naval officers feared she would capsize then and there. Her flight deck was, of course, useless but her aircraft in the air were ordered to continue the fight from the decks of other carriers.

Captain Elliott Buckmaster, 52, of Columbus, Ohio, who had skippered the Yorktown and her winged brood through a brilliant performance in the Coral Sea, ordered "abandon ship." Webb, from the vantage point of a cruiser, saw men swarm down ropes and drop into the water where they grabbed life belts "tossed from all sides" until rafts and boats picked them up for transfer to other ships of the task force.

Salvage forces then took over the bugs and other ships began the tedious job of getting the Yorktown back to port.

Small Destroyer Sinks
On the second day of ceaseless struggle with the Yorktown, officers finally decided they had a good chance to save her and the destroyer Hammann was placed alongside to assist in the work. But shortly after noon the Jap submarine attacked. Two torpedoes hit the Yorktown amidships and two more hit the Hammann. The little destroyer sank very quickly. The condition of the carrier rapidly became critical and the next morning, ripped and ragged as she was, she capsize and sank.

This ended the Yorktown after four and a half years of peacetime service and six months of valiant performance in war.

National Service Act Inevitable, Manpower Chairman McNutt Asserts

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—A national service act, giving the government broad controls over the nation's labor resources, was described today by Paul McNutt, chairman of the War Manpower Commission, as "inevitable" and as essential for maximum war production.

"I think the people are ready for it," he told the special House committee on defense migration, which now is studying methods for full utilization of the country's manpower.

McNutt disclosed that a commission sub-committee is studying the potential scope of a national service act, but declared that no decision had been reached as to when the recommendation for the legislation would be sent to President Roosevelt.

Bluntly, McNutt acknowledged that the Manpower Commission's present attempts to meet industry's increasing demands for labor through a system of "persuasion and agreements" had proved unsuccessful in many areas.

He said that "needless" migration of labor still continued, that "labor piracy" was proceeding unchecked and that discrimination against employing women and minority groups was hampering war production in several sections.

The Yorktown's tilting deck. "We learn we art not to sink her. Maybe the Yorktown will make port. We start to talk a bit."

"God knows she's earned a right to live," a warrant officer mutters.

"We start moving away. The fleet gets into formation. No more Japs have shown up. The Yorktown seems to slip away in the dusk, a couple of ships still with her. It's hard not to keep looking at the fading silhouette."

It was soon too dark to see any more, and we finally went down on deck.

The events leading up to the abandoning of the game ship already have been told.

From early morning until late at night the Pacific fleet, admittedly outpowered, had hurled its aerial strength in wave after wave at the would-be invaders. We counted the planes as they took off, and we counted them as they returned. They didn't all get back. But we knew, as reports came in, that they'd struck first and hard.

Excited Japs on Radio
We could hear excited Japanese voices on the radio. They didn't sound happy. We heard that the force on nearby Midway also had taken a terrific toll, that army planes were in the thick. Our jubilation grew as the day wore on.

Then came the final two Japanese attacks of the entire battle.

The first, about 2 p. m., was by dive bombers and set the Yorktown afire. She barely was visible through the smoke as our cruiser waited nearby in the wreckage strewn waters. We thought she was gone, and there was a tense hour of watching while the smoke gradually lessened. It seemed almost unbelievable when the Yorktown finally got underway.

Marines Itching

Solo group so far occupied is not absolutely secure and cannot be until the Japanese have been knocked farther back toward Tokyo. The Japanese still have bases in these islands from which warships and warplanes can thrust out like a knife. So can our warships and warplanes lash out at them.

Thus the United Nations and the Japanese are leering at each other across comparatively narrow seas, both up against that most difficult of all military operations—invading a defended island.

If the marines have as much good luck on their next sortie as they had in the days that followed August 6 they will be fortunate indeed. Incredibly fine luck blessed them from the beginning. As the breathtaking armada closed in that historic day low clouds and mist concealed its progress. That night it cleared sufficiently to make navigation easier in the confining waters.

A Japanese lookout on Florida Island saw our ships go by but just then the lookout station's radio failed and it couldn't sound the warning.

Japs Taken by Surprise
Mute evidence of the complete surprise thus achieved was found in the Japanese mess shacks with the unfinished breakfast still on the tables, chairs knocked back helter-skelter and personal belongings tossed in all directions by men who scurried through their gear to get things they would need in the bush. As one happy little guy exaggerated it, "a destroyer poked its forward gun into a Japanese tent and somebody shouted 'reville, you—!'"

Another said, "the only thing they had time to do was to close the doors of the refrigerator."

A funnel of one of the big ships shot up a fountain of sparks like an active volcano, but the Japanese failed to see them. Luckier still for the invaders, as soon as the boom of naval guns told the Japanese something was up they apparently decided it was merely a hit-and-run raid and scattered to the jungle, leaving invaluable heavy equipment and all sorts of supplies intact. Had they chosen, they could have scorched the earth and made it much tougher going for the marines.

Luck was with the marines when they found plenty of good drinking water. It was with them still when the Japanese couldn't get around to bringing in reinforcements until after the marines' own planes were on hand to bomb and strafe them as they came.

Still More Luck
It was luck, too, when the marines found the biggest prize of all—an almost completed airstrip with a surfaced runway extending 3,778 feet, and many buildings and installations almost ready for use.

That of course was the prime objective, but the marines scarcely expected to find it in such excellent condition. Only one small gap in the runway remained to be surfaced. The Japanese had been there three months working day and night on that field.

And here's some booty the attackers found in the airstrip: an electric light system running the entire length of the runway, five power rollers, two tractors, 200 tons of first-grade cement, three cement mixers, a water system, three mobile power hoisting units, a power plant, trucks, motor fuel, and more than fifty tons of steel.

The blessings of chance stuck with the marines the time sorely needed new bombers and fighters landed on Guadalcanal. The planes were spread over the field with motors still warm when Japanese bombers arrived in a surprise raid.

Japs Raid Ships
The raiders left the airstrip and its precious planes alone. Their targets were ships. They did some damage, but nothing comparable to what they might have done to that concentration of planes on the ground.

The marines and navy, too, have had some bad luck and it has brought losses which might naturally be expected in such a tough assignment as stopping the Japanese and rolling them back. But so far the breaks have been with the marines.

A pilot was brought into camp yesterday after having bailed out and having spent a week in a Japanese infested area. Somebody said, "He sure is lucky." Another replied, "Lucky? He's a marine."

Russia Reports

ments and equipment were the telling factors in the steady Axis advance which began June 22 in the Kharkov sector, reached Voronezh on the upper Don and then wheeled southward to overrun the Donets basin and a great part of the Northern Caucasus.

The armies locked in the cyclonic battle of the Volga were feeling the first real bite of frost on the twenty-third day of the Stalingrad siege. In Moscow, where the temperature was comparable, overcoats and gloves were appearing on the streets.

The army newspaper Red Star stressed the gravity of the situation brought about by increasing German mass air raids on Stalingrad. It said most of the Nazis successes were achieved by prodigious use of the air arm.

Paced always by planes, German tanks were dragging light cannon into action. When these got through Russian positions, Nazi artillerymen scrambled from guns or tanks, took up stations to support the tanks.

Now bolstered by fighter plane reinforcements where for a while they had none, the Russians in twenty-four hours had brought down thirty-five German planes at Stalingrad, either in aerial combat or by anti-aircraft fire.

and was enroute to St. Louis from New York via Buffalo, Cleveland and Indianapolis when it plowed into the freight.

John Rardin, publisher of The Charleston Daily News who hurried to the site of the crash and talked with members of the crew and witnesses, related that the engines were locked by the impact and turned over on their sides.

Six Passenger Cars Derailed
He added that six passenger cars were derailed, that one pitched over on its side and that three oil cars "piled up" and caught fire.

Ambulances were dispatched from Charleston and Mattoon and fire trucks from Charleston and Kansas, Ill.

Rardin said the east-bound oil freight was idle on a siding at the eastern edge of Ashmore, waiting for the west-bound limited to pass. He said the limited struck an open automatic switch, veered from the main line onto the siding and crashed into the engine of the freight train.

Farmers Urged To Use Modern Poultry Feeds

Plans for Sales Campaign Outlined by Feed Store Co-operative

Plans were outlined last night at a meeting of representatives of Southern States Co-operative feed stores for a sales campaign which is intended to help poultry and dairy farmers increase their production.

Due to the increased demands for eggs, milk and other farm produce as a result of the war effort farmers will be urged to buy feeds which will result in better quality and quantity of both poultry and dairy products, L. C. Brumback, district representative, told the agency operators.

Transportation problems due to heavy traffic on railroads were cited by Brumback as one reason why representatives should stock at least fifteen days supply of feed at their stores. If possible he said this should be increased to thirty days.

Feeds Are Discussed
* J. Julian Baker, Richmond, Va., head of Southern States Co-operative field service, spoke on the manufacture of poultry and dairy feeds. He told of the various ingredients used in making these types of feed and the reasons such items were included in their preparation.

Poultry farmers now have the use of feeds which contain necessary vitamins, calcium, phosphorus, and protein, he said. Some farmers have failed to use modern types of poultry feeds because they prefer to follow methods of feeding which their fathers and grandfathers used.

Baker told how this policy can not be followed if egg production is to be increased as the government asks. Back in the "old days" a farmer was satisfied if his hens laid thirty or forty eggs a year but nowadays hens are expected to produce between 200 and 300 eggs a year. Proper feeding methods will result in big yields of eggs, he added.

Fish Meal Will Help
Some ingredients such as meat scraps and fish meal will be increasingly harder to get due to a virtual stoppage of imports from foreign countries of these two ingredients, Baker declared. Japan formerly supplied the bulk of fish meal while South American nations shipped meat scraps to this country. American fishermen are restricted in their movements along our own coasts, he pointed out.

Baker devoted part of his talk to dairy feeds. The same formula as in poultry feeding holds good in this department of farming, he said. Representatives of Cumberland, Hancock, Oakland, Midland and Moorefield, W. Va., attended.

New Mosquito Screen Patented by Celanese

The pesty mosquito and others of their ilk which have raised hob with American families were faced with a new enemy in the form of United States Letters Patent No. 2,294,966 granted to Dr. Camille Dreyfus, president of Celanese Corporation of America.

This patent relates to screen material having a basis of cellulose acetate or other artificial organic material. According to the invention, insect screens are made from transparent artificial organic sheet material, such as cellulose acetate or synthetic resins, by forming therein openings of any geometric shape but small enough to prevent insects from passing through.

Such screens, in contrast with ordinary wire screens, are strong and flexible and substantially resistant to weathering. Moreover, due to their transparency, glare is reduced and a maximum of softened light is admitted into a room.

Congress Doesn't Take Roosevelt Seriously

CONGRESS, apparently, does not attach much weight to the president's threat to put a ceiling on wages. It seems to view his intentions to that end as indefinite and uncertain. The president did declare his intention of so acting, but it was scarcely more than a passing reference among the many words he had to say about the need for Congress to stabilize farm prices. That, as he put it, was the root of the whole problem. Stabilize farm prices and the rest would naturally follow, or he would see to it that it would.

Thus it is that the Congress now sticks out not only for parity farm prices but, as Paul Mallon points out in his column published on this page today, for an actual boost in the average of approximately nine per cent, to be attained by raising the prices of four products that have not advanced in price as rapidly as the others.

In order to do this, the Congress resorts to the old joker trick, which is regrettable inasmuch as it has been brought into the limelight of publicity as was inevitable, despite its puerile efforts to bury it in a mass of verbiage.

Congress should establish an overall ceiling on all prices if the battle against inflation is to amount to anything. That is its duty regardless of the attitude of the president respecting the wage ceiling question. It is its constitutional duty, and, as this newspaper has declared, it is safer to proceed under law than through dictatorial action by a man, or men.

The executive is not without blame for this congressional balking, which seems at first blush like plain perversity. Perhaps if he had made it clear that he would act positively with respect to one of the inflation loopholes as with the other, it might have rested its long fight against the executive respecting farm prices.

The situation that has been created through the inexcusable delay in grappling with the inflation menace sensibly and adequately — action that should have been taken months ago — again brings into sharp relief the unfortunate political-mindedness of both Congress and the executive. One plays for the farm vote, the other for the labor vote while the world is burning and we are not winning the war. It is shameful.

Nevertheless it is the plain duty of the Congress to legislate for the safety of the nation — for the protection of the unorganized millions who are being ground between the congressional and presidential millstones of special treatment of the powerful farm and labor blocs.

Looking to Business After the War

A NATION-WIDE PROGRAM to help management, labor, agriculture and government to plan for postwar employment and conversion to a peace economy has been launched by the United States Chamber of Commerce. The Chamber has obtained the co-operation of more than 8,000 manufacturers in a survey to determine how employment may be quickly returned to normal levels and industry restored to peacetime activities after the war.

The survey is only part of a research project sponsored by the chamber to develop facts about how industry will fill consumers' postwar demands. A specific industry research program will seek to analyze plant capacity needed for continuation of defense needs after the war, plant capacity available for production of civilian goods, machine tools and labor needed for reconversion and the estimated time for reconversion.

This survey is an example of intelligent foresight and its results should help every one to plan soundly for postwar readjustment so that needed civilian goods may be produced as rapidly as possible while preventing depression or boom, unemployment, runaway prices or inflation.

A Splendid Activity By the Kiwanians

SERVICE CLUBS of the community carry on much good work but none is deserving of more praise than the Sunshine camp conducted this summer by the Kiwanians, detailed report of the activities of which was recently submitted to the camp governors, headed by Dr. Charles L. Owens, one of our fine civic leaders.

Two groups of boys and two groups of girls, making a total of 161 children, were entertained at the camp, and that the program carried on for them was beneficial can be seen from the fact that all gained an average of three pounds in weight.

That represented worth-while physical development. But this was not all the youngsters received and were benefited thereby. They learned useful things about food, to which special attention was given; about civic duties, as exemplified in the observances of partial and total blackouts; about leadership and community ideals. All this came while they enjoyed pleasant social companionship and recreation.

The lift in community spirit is instanced in a paragraph from the report. "Some of the children came to us without any idea of community spirit or community play," it states. "Some in a few cases with a complex of inferiority. These children were the subject of study and discussion each day at the meetings of the counselors and Mom and Pop. Special treatment was given. The result was that these children learned to play with others and to give consideration to others. To see these children change in thinking and action from the selfish, backward, selfish child to one that was happy with others was a joy and certainly a part of 'We Build'."

Kiwanians are to be congratulated upon this splendid summer work, which will redound with manifold value to the community.

This Difference Points to Victory

THE ENTRY of the war into its fourth year brought forth two distinct and contradictory reactions from two of the warring nations. In London, and throughout all Britain, millions of Britons joined their king in observing a national day of prayer. But in Berlin, Paul Joseph Goebbels, propaganda minister, called on all Germans, "to get hot and hate the Allies, especially the British."

There, for all the world to see, is the difference between a people that is certain to win because it recognizes the necessity for paying homage to God, and a twisted man who spurns the help of the Almighty and calls, instead, for hate. Victory can not come through hate, which is the very antithesis of charity. And without charity there can be no peace.

Now charity means good will among men. Against this cornerstone of Christianity, what does Goebbels propose? For him the world is divided into two parts. "There is a world of love and a world of hate," he says. "We must know exactly when he must love and when we must hate." Could real charity exist in such a divided world?

Goebbels and all his hate can not prevail against the God of love and those who pray to Him that light and freedom shall in the fullness of time shine once more on the nations that lie in darkness.

School System Meets Needs of Wartime

ESTABLISHMENT of a course in industrial arts for senior girls at Fort Hill high school is another reminder that the school system of this county is being kept abreast of the times.

The course is designed to teach the girls to work at machines and with their hands, and embraces aircraft woodworking, blue print reading, mechanical drawing and machine operations of various kinds.

Thus is a potential wartime need recognized and given timely preparation. The need for girl workers will become greater as the war program proceeds and more and more young men are taken away from the industrial front for battle service.

It is a pioneer step, but not the first advance step taken by schools of the county to meet changing conditions. As each one comes along, however, there can be gratification that Allegany schools are well managed and that they have been provided with excellent equipment to meet these oncoming educational needs, and especially so on the part of the taxpayers who have been providing the wherewithal.

After the war, says a professor, the spinning wheel will stage a comeback. Perhaps, provided all one need to do is plug it in and press the button.

A good cook, we read, must have self confidence. We've always known you had to have crust to make a pie.

The Weak Man

By MARSHALL MASLIN

He fusses around home. He loses his temper very easily. Everything must be just so or he goes to pieces. He scolds his children. He nags at his wife and sulks when she doesn't please him.

He blows up if his socks have holes in them or if his shirt has a button off and he announces to the whole household that it's a blanket-blankest shame. His feelings are easily hurt—at home—and he lets everybody know about it. The children don't tell him things, they hide themselves from him.

Poor fellow! He isn't a Big Shot outside of his home so he wants to be important there. He isn't doing the kind of work he wants to do or he isn't doing his work as well as it should be done. He doesn't feel adequate in the world of other men and he wants to make up for it somehow. But he doesn't exactly know how. . . . So he takes it out on the family.

Sometimes his family is sorry for him. Sometimes it hates him, though none of the group ever tells him so. He knows his children and his wife aren't enthusiastic about him, but he doesn't know how to handle the situation except by being the Family Bully. And that doesn't work, either. . . . I heard, the other day, of a boy whose one ambition until he was fifteen years old was to be big enough to lick his old man. Did he lick his father when he grew big enough? No, when he grew that big, he was sorry for his father and wouldn't lay a hand on him. . . . And that's not such a rare situation, either.

Why are some fathers so foolish? I don't know. . . . But I do know they'd be happier if it occurred to them just once that though they can't be Big Shots elsewhere at least they can be LOVED in their own homes. They can't dominate on the job but they can dominate through affection in their own families. . . . I've known such men. They never made much money, they were never more than a few dollars away from the breadline, but mother and the kids were always glad when dad came home. He was one of the Bunch, and not a petty tyrant. So they loved him and he was a great success. . . . A man should remember that it's a sign of weakness, not strength, to be the Family Bully.

Attack on ALCOA, Held Inexcusable, Is Blamed on FDR

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Flying Fortresses and fighter planes and other military facilities require an enormous amount of aluminum and today America has in sight an aluminum-making capacity of about 2,300,000,000 pounds a year, which is nearly twice the whole world consumption in pre-war days.

The aluminum program is so far along now and the expansion has been accomplished so efficiently that American plane manufacturers have not suffered from any shortage of aluminum and will not encounter any so far as at present foreseen.

The job of providing aluminum-making capacity has fallen primarily to the Aluminum Company of America, which will produce either in its own plants or in plants operated by it for the government about 2,000,000,000 pounds or nearly ninety per cent of the whole program. Being the principal company with experience, the government has relied on it to carry the burden of aluminum making.

In the middle of such an outstanding job—the like of which has not been paralleled by any other business—President Roosevelt has ordered the attorney general to do everything in his power through the anti-trust laws to dissolve the Aluminum company and break it up.

Not in Public Interest

The Aluminum company officials can't understand this kind of warfare and they have issued a statement declaring that while they will co-operate patriotically with the government, they do not think it is in the public interest for the time of the officials to be taken up with a lawsuit which has for its objective the destruction of the company.

"We do not question for a moment," says the Aluminum company statement, "the legal right of the Anti-Trust division of the Department of Justice to appeal to the United States supreme court. But we do seriously question the Anti-trust division's good judgment in appealing under the extraordinary world circumstances now existing. We sincerely believe that the interests of the country would best be served by accepting the result of what has been one of the most thoroughly tried cases in the history of the world and leaving ALCOA to devote its every thought and effort to make aluminum."

No Guilt Found

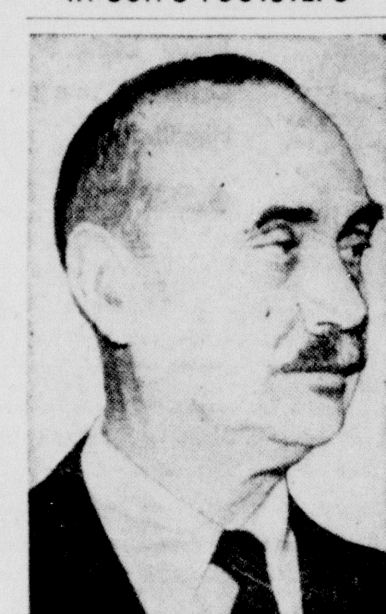

"The Aluminum case covered five years and three months from the filing of the petition to the final decree. From 153 witnesses, Judge Caffey, of the United States district court, heard testimony that filled 41,722 pages. He examined 15,000 pages of exhibits and 1,500 pages of sworn answers to interrogators. ALCOA's entire corporate life for more than half a century was laid before the court. In his decision Judge Caffey ruled that the department of Justice had not sustained any of its charges of conspiracy or monopolization. He also ruled that ALCOA was not violating the anti-trust laws, that it was a fair competitor and a constructive influence in the aluminum industry. In concluding his decision he said that it would be "greatly contrary to the public interest" to dissolve the Aluminum Company of America.

"During the entire course of this longest trial of all time, the key men of the Aluminum company were forced to do two jobs: they had to defend the company and themselves and at the same time make aluminum. Despite this latest action of the Anti-trust division, the company pledges the American people that it will do everything in its power to prevent further litigation from interfering with the production of aluminum so badly needed to win this war—an air war—fought with planes made ninety per cent of aluminum."

A Serious Impediment

It will be contended, of course, by the department of Justice that it

Sales Tax Necessary, Authorities Say, To Complete Defense against Inflation

By MARK SULLIVAN

Can we use our present unhappy experience to prevent another future one? We can, if we have courage to act upon a lesson learned. What Congress is doing these closing weeks of September is to correct a mistake made a year ago. It is locking the coop after some of the chickens have been stolen. As respects harm already done, it is acting too late. There is still risk that it may act too little.

When the price control law, in its original draft, was introduced last year, it contained two exemptions. The exemptions were strongly worded; they reflected a specific, conscious intention. One exemption read: "No ceiling shall be established for any agricultural commodity below 110 per cent of the parity price."

The other exemption was wages of labor, and it expressed even more strongly: "Nothing in this act shall be construed to authorize the regulation of compensation by an employer to any of his employees."

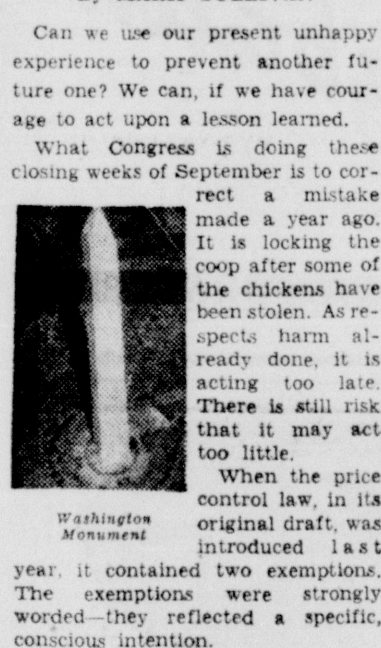

At once it was pointed out that these exemptions made the bill useless. Witness after witness showed that you cannot put a ceiling over the prices of goods generally—and at the same time not put any ceiling on wages, and only a partial and flexible ceiling on crop prices. It did not take much showing—it should be apparent to anyone who knows that two plus two makes four. Crop prices, which is cost of living, and wages, are the two principal factors in the price level of goods generally. The sum of these two is, roughly, the general price level.

Among the many authorities who showed this, who explained and insisted that there must be a ceiling on crop prices and wages, was one who stood out, Mr. Bernard M. Baruch, by his position and background, was one whose judgment ought to have been accepted without question. Yet when he said, and repeated and emphasized, that the price ceiling must include wages and crop prices, he was not only ignored but resented. (At this time, a frequent attitude on the part of some in the administration was to regard Mr. Baruch as a horse and buggy interloper. The time came when the administration was glad to call in Mr. Baruch to pull it out of the quagmire it had got into about rubber.)

Yet, against Mr. Baruch's position, a parade of administration witnesses went before the congressional committee holding hearings on the bill, or spoke informally. So far as this writer's files show, only one member of the administration came out flatly with a statement that if price control was to succeed, it must include wages and crop prices. That was Mr. Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the Federal Reserve System.

Henderson Prudent

The exemption of crop prices was defended by Secretary of Agriculture Wickard. The bill as a whole, with both its exemptions, was defended by Mr. Leon Henderson—who had a special responsibility, since he was going to administer price control. As one reads Mr. Henderson's testimony now, one finds he was prudent. He achieved compromise be-

Among the many authorities who showed this, who explained and insisted that there must be a ceiling on crop prices and wages, was one who stood out, Mr. Bernard M. Baruch, by his position and background, was one whose judgment ought to have been accepted without question. Yet when he said, and repeated and emphasized, that the price ceiling must include wages and crop prices, he was not only ignored but resented. (At this time, a frequent attitude on the part of some in the administration was to regard Mr. Baruch as a horse and buggy interloper. The time came when the administration was glad to call in Mr. Baruch to pull it out of the quagmire it had got into about rubber.)

Yet, against Mr. Baruch's position, a parade of administration witnesses went before the congressional committee holding hearings on the bill, or spoke informally. So far as this writer's files show, only one member of the administration came out flatly with a statement that if price control was to succeed, it must include wages and crop prices. That was Mr. Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the Federal Reserve System.

Henderson Prudent

The exemption of crop prices was defended by Secretary of Agriculture Wickard. The bill as a whole, with both its exemptions, was defended by Mr. Leon Henderson—who had a special responsibility, since he was going to administer price control. As one reads Mr. Henderson's testimony now, one finds he was prudent. He achieved compromise be-

Between his economic understanding, and the political position of the administration. He avoided saying there should be no control over wages—he merely said that wage control need not be included in the bill.

Since the administration was in favor of the exemption of crop prices and wages, Congress would not take the initiative in changing the measure. It was a case, not of passing the buck—but of not picking the buck up. The bill was enacted in February. Mr. Henderson began to place ceiling here, there and everywhere—everywhere, that is, except on crop prices and wages. Quickly he found, and may not have been surprised to find, that his ceilings would not stick. Presently Mr. Henderson was shouting to Heaven for a ceiling over wages. Presently, Secretary of Agriculture Wickard reversed himself, asked that the 110 per cent of parity provision about crop prices be eliminated.

Inflation under Way

By April 27, President Roosevelt knew that the exemptions could not continue, that inflation was under way. He sent a message to Congress, and made an address to the public, calling for, among other things, a ceiling on wages and a ceiling on crop prices.

There ensued a queer sort of tug of war. As the situation stood, Congress had control of crop prices, Mr. Roosevelt of wages. Congress would not act on crop prices until it was sure Mr. Roosevelt would act about wages. For four months, inflation continued. Then September 7, Mr. Roosevelt made his address demanding action by Congress by October 1.

There is another subject, about which we can now act in time—or act belatedly after harm is done. Competent authorities say that, in order to prevent inflation, it is necessary that there be a sales tax, or some equivalent. This, like wage and crop control, is politically unpopular.

A Ban Gets Approval

From the Charleston, W. Va., Daily Mail

Ours is not, alas, the prohibitionist temperament. We just don't like the idea of running around shaking our index finger at other people's innocent, if outlandish, fables just because we don't like them. And yet, in spite of this, we must confess to some small satisfaction at the War Production board's ban on the "jive" coat, that indispensable upper three-quarters of the "zoot suit."

WPB says it is too long, which is what we have thought for some time, and it reinforces our purely esthetic prejudice with the observation that the "jive" coat uses more material than the law allows. The extra length, about five inches, will have to come off all future models, and we are measurably happier at the prospect. Maybe we shouldn't be, considering our principles, but we are. After all, it's legal.

Now if WPB can find a way to do something about those "jive" trousers, which bind at the ankle and ascend in an indolent curve to the armpits, we are perfectly willing to withdraw. They, too, it seems to us, use more material than is absolutely necessary to shield the wearer's lower limbs from the wintry blast and might well be trimmed a little without harming anyone.

Farm Price Boost Is in the Cards, Paul Mallon Says

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—The sham battle of farm price stabilization waxes warmer, wholly concealed from public view by a mass of such impenetrable phrases as "farm-wage parity," and/or the highest prices since January 1, "100 per cent parity loans," and such.

The president's speech sounded to all, save those few who can read the double and triple meanings of these terms, as if he wanted to freeze farm prices where they are now.

The farm bloc first rose in righteous anger, as if he were proposing to do something even more drastic to the prices. They acted as if he wanted to cut them down.

The Steagall bloc in the House is now currently on a rampage against the Senate bill, pretending it would cut the farmer from what he should have.

Concealed in Verbiage

You never find that out until you cut your way through the fancy verbiage of the controversy, and ascertain the precise effect this proposed "stabilization" would have on each basic commodity price now.

The official authority, the Bureau of Economics in the Agriculture department, will tell you, upon inquiry, that cotton was ninety-six per cent of parity August 15, the date last computed. Tobacco sold at prices then ranging from 121 per cent of parity for flue cured, to 135 per cent for Maryland, and 166 per cent for Georgia and Florida.

Wheat then was seventy-one per cent of parity, corn eighty-five per cent. Hogs were 128 percent, Beef 137 percent, veal 126 percent, lamb 135 percent, sheep eighty-two percent—your butcher bill.

The average of all farm products August 15 was about 107 percent of parity.

Four below Goal

Now the proposal of Mr. Roosevelt, the Senate, and Mr. Steagall, all are designed primarily, they say, to establish "parity." But you can readily see from the above list that practically everything except cotton, wheat, corn and sheep already is above the goal that they profess primarily to seek.

Their proposals would have the effect, therefore, of moving cotton, wheat, corn and sheep up to parity—increasing these current prices as much as eighteen percent above August 15 levels in the case of sheep.

As wheat, corn and cotton are the largest crops of the nation, the pending legislation is not primarily a price stabilization for them, but a price increase bill.

No Price Cuts

But, you may ask, does the legislation then mean a reduction in the other farm prices that are away above parity now. Oh, no. No prices will be cut. There is a second provision in all the proposals (one of those "and/or's") which says the president must fix for the other commodities—not the parity price, not even the current price, but the highest price that has prevailed since last January 1.

All grains were at their highest point last March, when they were at 123 percent of parity. Cotton and cottonseed were at 159 percent in May, so any of the proposals now pending would cause the maximum price to be fixed at these former highest levels of the year.

Nine per Cent Boost

As a whole, the basic agreed terms of the legislation would increase farm prices from 107 percent, August 15, up to about 116 percent. In other words, a nine percent further increase in farm prices will actually be the effect of this legislation, which they are all calling a price stabilization bill.

So while the battle wages thickly and the words stretch high and long, the legislation actually seems to offer more comfort to the farmer than the housewife, or to the husband who pays the grocery bills. Somehow no one seems even to mention that.

Parents Should Teach Children Uses of Money

Dr. Myers Favors Itemized Budgets with Revisions when Needed

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

A certain lawyer writes:

"Dear Dr. Myers:—I am surprised, chagrined and disheartened by your article 'Teaching child use of money.' You seem still inclined to put property rights ahead of human rights."

"Such things would seem impossible on the part of a man of your intelligence but your enemies must joyfully cry that you are a sudden reactionary, and as to your friends—what can they reply?"

"You would have the baby spend only on certain days and would 'hold him strictly to this program.'"

"You would place money in his hands only after he has developed responsibility!"

"You favor itemized budgets instead of blanket appropriations!"

"You are firmly against temptations to juggle accounts!

"And all this in the early, impressionable years of the child, when he is most likely to fall into the habits of frugality, financial responsibility and regard for the rights that so disregard the old, forever-departed age of scarcity!"

My Reply

I am sorry you dislike my article "Teaching child use of money." I am not sure I understand your point of view or that you do mine.

I would have the baby spend or receive money only on a certain day of the week instead of letting him have it when he asked for it, the purpose being to cultivate the first steps in him of waiting and planning.

I would place money in the child's hands to cover a number of expenditures only after he had acquired responsibility to distribute this amount over a period, say a week, after a plan.

I do favor itemized budgets for the child, he designating ahead of time the amount needed for certain regular requirements for a week, say, such as for lunch, bus fare, Sunday school, plus a small amount to do with as he pleases. Then from time to time, as he saw new regular needs arising he could revise the budget with me.

Some children, of course, do very well at having a certain amount of money given them, to be given more after they have made a satisfactory itemized report on the preceding amount; while others fall into the temptation of juggling in order to win the next allowance. My plan would remove this temptation.

I am enclosing my special bulletin on "Allowances" which, I hope, will make my point of view more clear.

Anyway, I am grateful to you for your letter, as I am to all who read my column thoughtfully and critically. Do write me at any time when you think I am wrong.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. My girl four years old won't stay in the chair when I send her there for punishment unless I threaten her constantly.

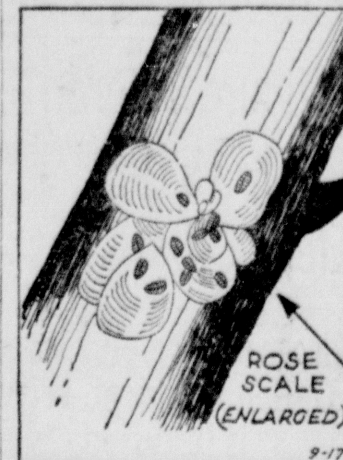

A. Don't be so foolish. Spank her the minute she moves an inch from the chair. She won't risk leaving the chair till her time is up once she is sure doing so would cost her pain. Be too proud to threaten or shriek at her again.

TODAY'S VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

By DEAN HALLIDAY

PESTS OF BUSH FRUITS

The blackberry and raspberry shrubs are frequently attacked by the Rose Scale. The infestation is usually noticeable at the base of the plant, particularly on the more heavily shaded parts of the stem. As illustrated in the Garden-Graph, Rose Scale is a snow-white, nearly circular scale insect. These scales are about one-fifth of an inch across when full grown. Under these scales will be found many reddish purple eggs in the fall and winter. The bark area about the scale becomes reddened. Young hatch the latter part of May or early June.

Badly infested canes should be cut off and burned. Dorman applications of a miscible oil or lime-sulphur wash will control the pests. American tourists spent $104,000,000 in Canada in 1941.

All America Knows Budweiser... but Few Know This

FROM GLACIERS TO GLIDERS

Thousands of retailers of ice cream and frozen foods are using equipment made by our Refrigeration Division—a manufacturing activity which was developed from our years of experience in making ice in glacier-like quantities needed for the brewing of Budweiser.

This equipment is helping to keep America's foods fresher and more nutritious.

Today, however, orders for ice cream and food cabinets will have to wait, for this Division is working all-out on glider wing and fuselage assemblies for our Army Air Forces.

Year after year, we have striven with research and resources to better the methods and facilities for brewing Budweiser. To do this, a laboratory specializing in fermentation and nutrition was necessary. Discoveries made in the laboratory and in the plant have led to the development of products contributing to human necessity and progress. Some of these products would appear to have only a remote relationship to brewing, yet, they are the result of scientific research into many allied fields.

Endless research in making the world's leading beer has led to other products

VITAMINS, B COMPLEX—Our plant is one of the world's largest sources for manufacturers of pharmaceutical and food products.

VITAMIN D—Anheuser-Busch produces enough of the basic material for Vitamin D to supply the entire American market.

BAKER'S YEAST—We are one of America's biggest suppliers of standard and enriched yeasts and malt syrup used to make bread.

CORN SYRUP—many millions of pounds annually for America's candy industry.

SYRUPS—for food, table and confectionery uses and special syrups for medicinal purposes.

STARCH—for food, textile, paper and other industries—millions of pounds annually.

VITAMINS FOR LIVESTOCK—We are America's biggest supplier of yeast vitamins used to fortify animal feeds.

DIESEL ENGINES—Adolphus Busch, founder of Anheuser-Busch, acquired the first rights to manufacture this revolutionary engine in America and thus started our great Diesel industry on its way.

Mark's Wife

by MARIE BLIZARD

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX

"I'll bet Mother threw a monkey wrench into the works. Didn't she, Dad?" Pam was gayly persistent.

"Not at all," he said briefly. Claire had indeed "thrown the monkey wrench" into his plans, but it had been his fault. He'd thought she'd taken it for granted that he was coming and hadn't said anything more about it in his brief notes since that telephone conversation weeks before.

Apparently she hadn't taken anything for granted, because when he called her this afternoon, her voice had been hesitant and he gathered that he had upset her plans.

She said, "When I didn't hear anything further from you, I thought you didn't want to come. I—I put the Frisbees off until next month. If you really want to come... But there's a crowd here... friends of mine from Virginia... I don't think you'd be interested in them... But, Tom, if you'd really planned on it..."

He'd cut in then, keeping the disappointment out of his voice, saying, "Don't worry about me. I'll take the car and run up with Frank to his lodge."

An accordion player began to play "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here" for a party in the corner.

Pam said, "It certainly is all here, and tonight is going to be a night. Have you got theater tickets, Dad?"

He said, "I have!" and hailed a pretty flower-vendor. He bought sheaves of gardenias for each of them.

Pinning them to her fur collar, Barbara, a little giddy and very happy from the effect of the cocktails, was very sure it was going to be, as Pamela predicted, a night!

It was. They dined beautifully in the gold and white dining room that Theodore had copied from his famous restaurant in Paris, on vichy-soisse, incredibly smooth and chilled to a degree of perfection. Golden sole was followed by breast of chicken cooked in white wine sauce and served with baby lima beans and a crisp salad of endive and romaine. When this was finished, a corps of waiters brought a small table, an alcohol lamp and there was a flash of deft hands and a blue flame above the crepe Suzette that was their sweet. They lingered over tiny cups of coffee and creme de menthe frappe until Pam said she couldn't bear to miss the rising curtain at the revue for which Tom had bought tickets.

Tom said he selected tickets for that particular revue because it was the gayest in town. It was. The music was the music of the moment, both sweet and saucy. The comedians made them laugh until tears rolled down the girls' cheeks, and the costumes and sets were so beautiful Barbara said she wanted to photograph them on her memory.

When the last act was over, they went out into the lobby to smoke and because Barbara wanted to see "celebrities."

The lobby was jammed with men in tail coats and with women wearing diamonds and sables and ermine.

Barbara said to Pam, "I'd like to have a little jacket like the one on the girl over there by the box-office. The red-haired girl."

Pam let out a shriek: "But that's Mimsey!"

"Who's Mimsey?" her father asked. But Pam had already left his side and was wriggling her way through the crowd to the red-haired girl.

She brought her back. "Barbara Wister... and my dad... I want you to meet Mimsey Scoville. We were roommates together at Miss Maidstone's ages ago."

Mimsey bowed respectfully to Tom and smiled at Barbara, then came alive and said, "Please don't be a stern parent, Mr. Kilcran. I'll simply die if you take Pam off."

Pam supplied the possible reason for Mimsey's threatened demise:

"She's having a snazzy party tomorrow night, Dad. Didn't know I was here or she would have sent me an invitation and I could have told you about it before."

"What is a snazzy party?" Tom asked gravely.

Mimsey said, "Oh, you know, smooth men! A Harvard crowd! A rumba band and all that. If Pam doesn't stay, it will simply be flat."

"Well," Tom said, "I'd hate to be responsible for that. But I don't like to leave—"

"Oh, Dad, please! I can stay with Mim tonight and tomorrow night and come home the next day. I am old enough to travel on trains alone, you know."

"If you can assure me that you'll be chaperoned," Tom said with a twinkle in his eye.

Both young girls shrieked.

"Isn't he quaint?" Pam declared. "All parents are," Mimsey said conclusively. "But if you could see my mother! She positively doesn't use lipstick."

"In that case," Tom told her, "I feel that my baby will be quite safe."

Pam permitted herself a rare girlish giggle. When Mimsey departed with, "Meet you right here after the show," Pam said, "You certainly are funny, Dad. Hadn't you better be thinking about who's going to chaperone Barbara?"

"Barbara?" he said. "Certainly. If you're going to go old world on me, you've got to do the same for her."

"And what danger is Barbara in?" that lady asked.

"Figure it out for yourselves. You two turn up together on the last train in South Wintridge, with Barbara decorated with corsage and all, and what will the town think? You'd better wear false beards when you get off the train at 3 o'clock in the morning."

Tom said sternly, "A little more respect for your elders, please, miss. Besides, there's never anyone awake in South Wintridge at 3 o'clock in the morning."

He was quite right. He would not have been right, however, if he had added that South Wintridge people did not return on that train.

Miss Minnie Trowbridge was an expert seamstress. No one in South Wintridge—and everyone knew her, since she had been sewing for her families for nearly 40 years—would deny that. Nor could they deny her boasting. "Folks say I'm a one-woman newspaper," she was fond of repeating, and "Many's the lady in South Wintridge who wouldn't have anybody else sew for her. They even send for me when they move away somewhere else."

It wasn't very often that she was sent for, and Mary Humboldt, who had been Mary Linke, wouldn't have sent for her that fateful September when she moved to New York if she'd known where to find anyone else who could do what she wanted done. Minnie was a talker, but she was a fast and competent worker and it was worth the added cost of paying her railroad fare to New York to get the children's clothes ready and right for school.

It would have been worth a king's ransom to Barbara Wister to have prevented Minnie's trip to New York.

Help Prevent COLDS from developing

At a few drops of Vicks Vapo-Nol in each nostril at the very first sniffle, or sign of nasal irritation, its quick action aids nature's defenses against colds. Follow directions in folder.

Special Care for Eyes Is Necessary During Certain Periods, Doctor Says

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D. are eye conditions that fit only that time. Even before birth certain eye conditions can be prevented by treatment, as pointed out by Dr. Lawrence T. Post, of St. Louis. Others he thinks should be prevented by restricting marriages.

One of these is high myopia, or near-sightedness, an hereditary defect due to the shape of the eye-ball. At least the marriage of two people of extreme myopia should be prevented. But when we remember that failure to do this is responsible for the high incidence of this defect among the Germans today and the Germans are supposed to be the most scientific people on earth such a cause seems quite hopeless.

Preventive Measures
Many eye diseases have become practically non-existent on account of the enforcement of preventive measures and public health education. Thus to carry the age period to just after birth, medical science has practically eliminated "ophthalmia neonatorum," the blindness of the new-born, in civilized countries. Whereas not so long ago there were blind asylums crowded with these victims, now the instillation of a weak solution of silver nitrate into the eyes of the child immediately after birth, to kill germs that might have got in during the passage down the birth canal, prevents this condition 100 per cent.

In the young adult period of life also prevention of industrial accidents to the eyes has been a great sight saver—how great we hardly can guess. Poor illumination too has been shown to be responsible for much eye fatigue and this has been largely corrected.

Coming to middle age there are very few people who escape a visit to the eye specialist, for "presbyopia," the blurred vision that results from a hardening and lack of elasticity of the crystalline lens. Perhaps the patient is depressed by this event. "This is the beginning of old age," he says. He jokes about it, but he isn't very happy.

Dr. Post thinks people at about the age of 40 should be prepared for the spectacle epoch, to soften the jar when it comes. There are plenty of good things about the eyes after 50 and this epochal event is relatively unimportant.

The modern man or woman should think also about the blessings that modern optics has given them. Not long ago the science of spectacle-making was still in its journeyman stage and people from 50 on put up with glasses that gave them any old kind of vision.

Bifocal Spectacles
Benjamin Franklin among his other practical blessings to humanity invented bifocal spectacles and that was not so long ago.

Samuel Pepys closed his diary because he thought he was going blind, when it was only that he was nearing the age of 40, but in his day spectacles were few and far between, and eye-glass fitting had never been considered by scientific men.

To summarize—for the health of the eyes everyone needs a doctor's attention at the time of his birth, and again between the ages of 6 and 10 when the demands of school bring out small acular defects, and then not again as a routine measure unless some bad luck comes along until the age of 40.

Questions and Answers
D. S.: Would it be harmful for an expectant mother to have her teeth extracted?

Answer: The expectant mother should have her teeth examined regularly. Perhaps it may be necessary to extract one or two. I can't tell from your question whether you mean all the teeth extracted. I do not believe any dentist would advise that.

Salvation Army's Loss in Recent Fire Is $175

Brig. B. L. Phillipson
Makes Monthly Report to Advisory Board

The Salvation Army incurred a loss of approximately $175 when paper stored in the boiler room of the old Footer Dye Works building burned September 3, Brigadier B. L. Phillipson, announced yesterday following the monthly meeting of the advisory board.

Brig. Phillipson said all the paper, collected for salvage, was destroyed either by fire or water with the exception of three tons of cardboard and one bale of newspapers.

Debris Hauled to Dump
Although a balance of $60.20 was on hand at the end of August as a result of the army's salvage program, it was necessary to spend the entire amount to hire men and trucks to haul the fire debris to the city dump.

At present there is no market for paper, Brig. Phillipson said, but the army is continuing to collect metals of all kinds, magazines, burlap, manila rope, rags, victrola records, rubber and other similar materials for the salvage program.

In his August report to the board on religious and social welfare work, Brig. Phillipson said that fifty-three senior meetings were held and were attended by 1,163 persons while 842 persons attended sixteen youth program classes.

Under the service and relief program during the month, eight grocery orders, 140 garments and sixteen pairs of shoes were given away. As an aid to transients and local homeless persons, fifty-four meals were supplied and sixteen lodgings furnished. Two meetings were held in the county jail with an attendance of thirty-one persons; thirty-six religious publications were distributed there.

New Roof for Citadel

During the month of August, Brig. Phillipson reported, enough funds were raised through out-of-town collections and collections at the Fairgo races to pay $596 toward the cost of remodeling the South Cumberland building. He reported also that a new roof has been erected on the citadel on North Mechanic street.

The Cumberland Free Public Library was given 450 old books to be sent to army camps or used for other purposes and 300 copies of the National Geographic and the Readers Digest were sent to the USO.

The Rev. Dr. H. Hall Sharp, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran church and vice chairman of the advisory board, presided at the meeting in place of Dr. Emmett L. Jones, chairman of the board, who is now serving as a major with the Airforce Technical Training School, Lincoln, Neb.

Two Children Are Treated for Injuries

Ethel Robinette, 7, Fairview terrace, was treated at 5:45 p. m. yesterday for lacerations suffered when she fell on a stick.

Three Births Are Reported in Hospitals

Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Huff, Valley road, Route 3, announce the birth of a daughter yesterday afternoon in Allegheny hospital.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Jesse H. Benson, Williams road, yesterday morning in Memorial hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Carlton Sterne, Columbus, Ohio, announce the birth of a son September 13. Mr. Sterne is a son of Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Sterne, 514 Beall street.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lease, 12 Hampton place, yesterday morning in Allegheny hospital.

Legion Presents Flag To Radio Station Here

A silk American flag was presented to radio station WTBO on Monday evening by Mrs. Harry Vogel, of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13 auxiliary, in behalf of the American Legion auxiliary, Department of Maryland, for the station's cooperation with the service organization.

Mrs. Vogel also presented the station an electrical transcription of "The Story Behind the Star Spangled Banner."

The gifts were received in behalf of the station by Stewart W. Phillips.

Dr. Wagner Conducts Revival in Fort Ashby

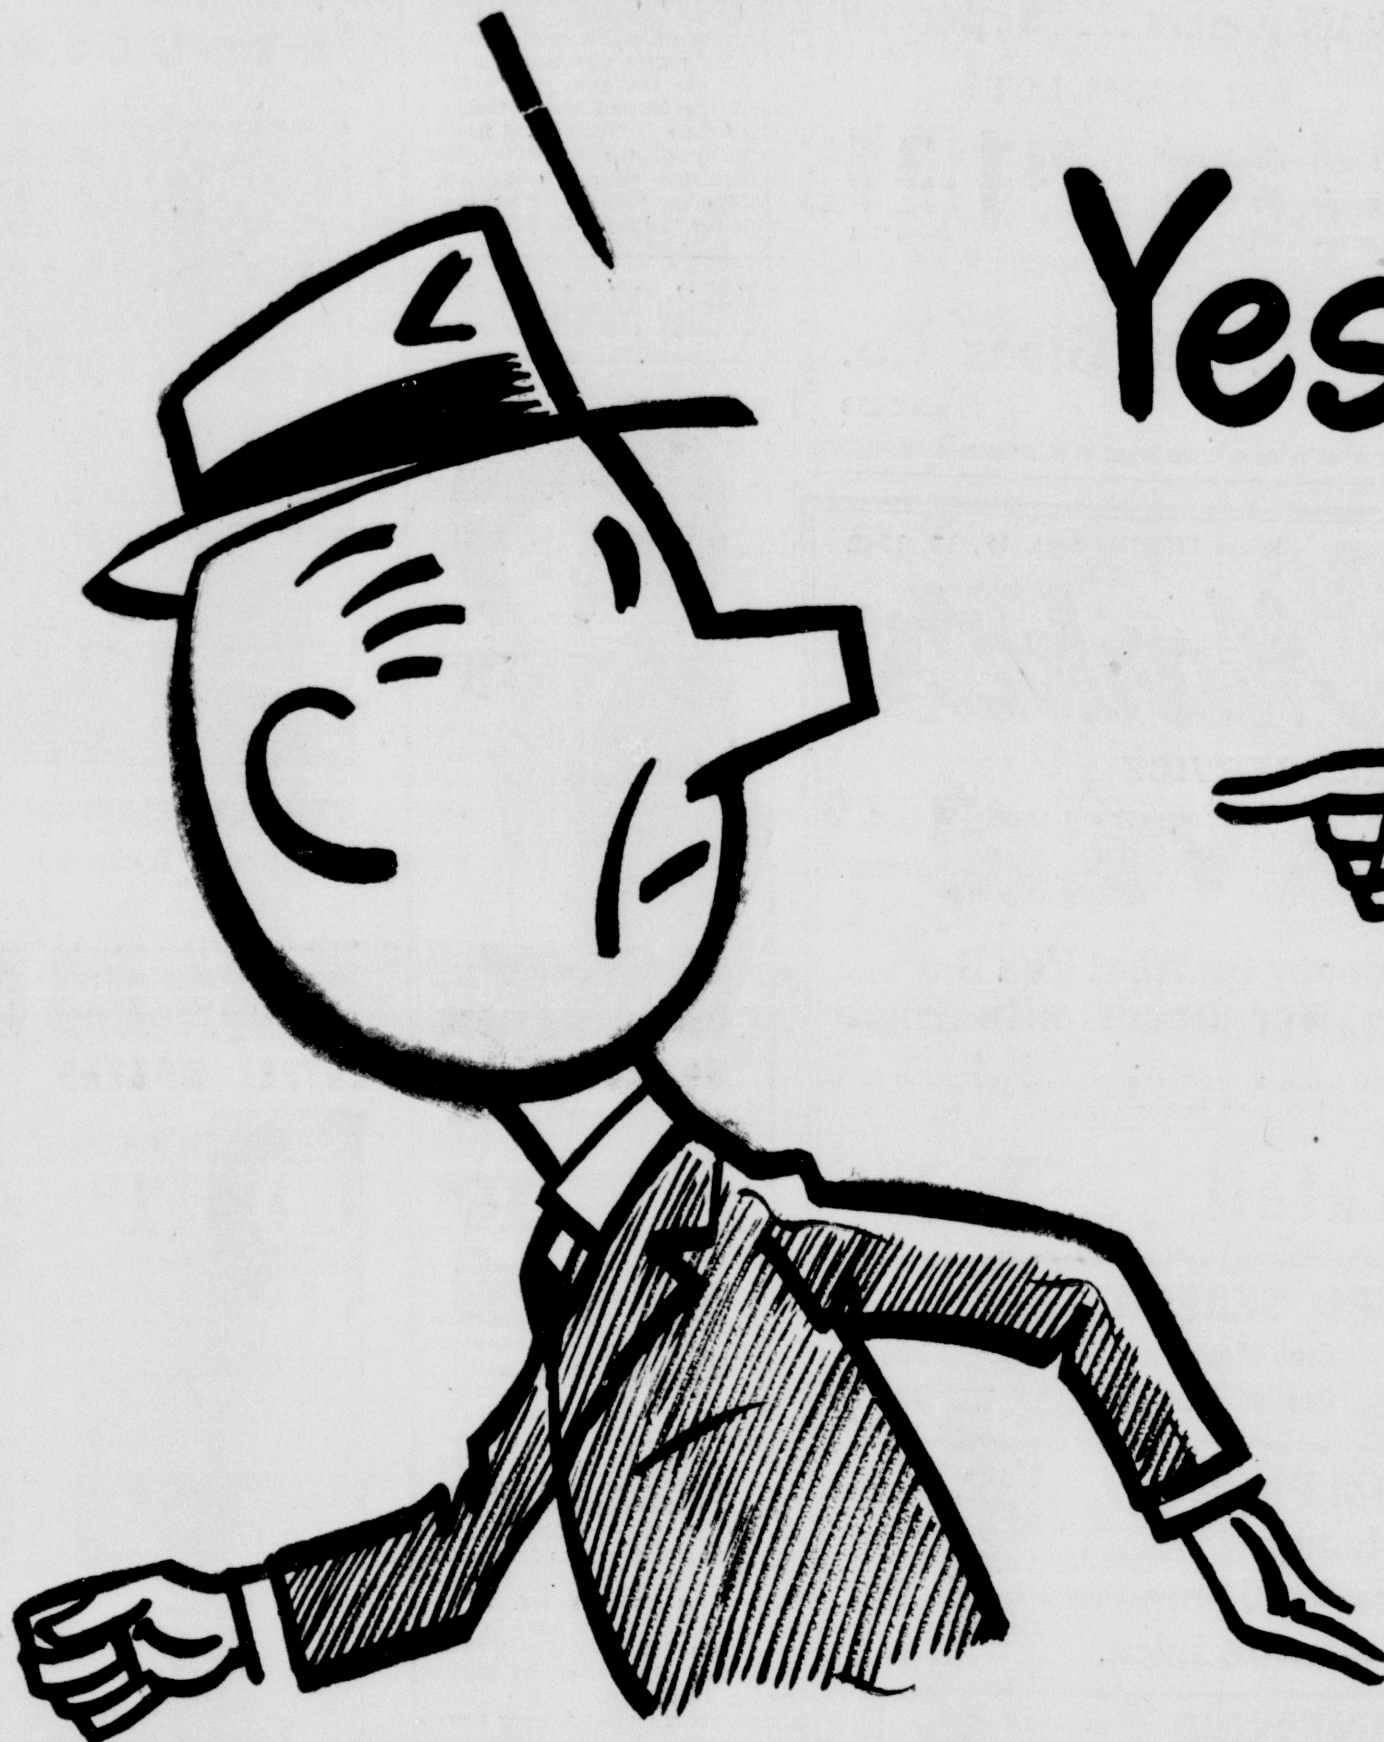

Dr. Rev. H. H. Wagner, D. D., professor of theology in the Practical Bible Training school, Hampton, N. Y., is conducting revival meetings each evening this week in the Fort Ashby Presbyterian church.

The services, which begin at 7:45 o'clock also include a musical program by the Rev. Don Cheney, West Clarksville, N. Y., who plays a solo on the baritone horn during the service.

The revival meeting is the last to be conducted by the Rev. Mr. Wagner before he returns to school for the 1942-1943 term.

Who, me?

Yes, you!

Yes, neighbor, you . . .

. . . quiet, self-effacing you are a living part and parcel of the biggest, toughest, bloodiest war in all the hard pages of history.

You can't escape it. You can't hide out on the moon!

For here is a war EVERYBODY is in. The man behind the plow. The kid in knee pants. The oldster with the cane. The housewife with the market basket. The white collar worker. The blue collar worker. The girl in the schoolroom.

We're ALL in it—look, neck, body, and soul.

If America loses, you lose. If America goes down (and it can), you go down, too. And every decent thing goes down with you . . . that home, that hearth, that patch of ground, that blessed freedom.

The only way to save these things is to win the war!

And the only way to win is to outbuild, outgun, outplane, and outfight the enemy—to make him sick at the sound of a propeller, the sight of a tank, the roar of a bomb.

That's where you come in.

For, brother and sister, building these things takes money. Lots of it! And your Government needs that money right now! Not for keeps. They don't want you to give it away. They just want you to lend it to them.

Invest every dime, quarter, half-dollar, and dollar you can lay your hands on in U. S. Stamps and Bonds. Not just spare money but money you can't spare. Dig deep. Deny yourself. This is war!

Make every pay day Bond day. Make every day Stamp day. Start doing it this very day!

ENLIST YOUR CURRENT SAVINGS FOR VICTORY!

See in this table how your savings, set aside regularly by you—and by every American with an income—reach 10 billion dollars in just 1 year! Then make up your mind to pledge—not the least, but the MOST you can. By doing your part you'll be helping America produce the 60,000 planes, 45,000 tanks, 20,000 antiaircraft guns, and eight million tons of shipping we MUST HAVE this year TO WIN! Remember, you can start buying Bonds by buying Stamps for as little as 10 cents and that you get a $25.00 (maturity value) Bond (Series E) for only $18.75.

HOLLYWOOD'S "DARK JEWELS" GLITTER IN THE BACKGROUND

Edith Kemp and "her" Bette Davis

By ROBIN COONS
Wide World Feature Writer

HOLLYWOOD—There's a select circle of off-stage celebrities out here, some of its members as well known in Hollywood as the stars they serve. They're the personal maids—the "dark jewels" of Hollywood.

If no man is a hero to his valet, the same cannot be said for the glamour girls and their attendants. The stars are heroines to their maids. They have to be, in greater or less degree, because a good maid is regarded as a rare treasure, and treasures can pick their own heroines. They're extremely particular about whom they serve.

One is Bette Davis's Edith Kemp—or "Kempy" as she's called. Besides helping her with wardrobe changes, straightening up her dressing room, serving lunch or tea, Kempy is Bette's buffer.

Job Demands Diplomacy
"Heroine?" Kempy laughs. "She's my baby. She's my little girl. I just like to take care of her. She had another maid when I first saw her working. I asked the girl if she'd mind if I got her another job. So I could work for Miss Bette. She was agreeable, so I did, and I've been with Miss Bette ever since."

Kempy has worked for other stars, among them Grace Moore and Peggy Hopkins. A graduate of Ohio's Wilberforce College, and a native of Wilberforce, Kempy makes a career of polish diplomacy.

Make Stars Their Own
"You have to know when to step forward with Miss Bette," she says, "and when to keep out of the way. If it's time to keep out of the way—boy, you'd better keep!"

Stars' maids usually show a possessive attitude toward their mistresses, like Hazel Washington. When Hazel read reports of her husband, Russell's engagement to Fred Brisson, Hazel asked, "Miss Russell, we're not going to get married, are we?"

Rosalind has backed Hazel in a leather-goods shop, and the Russell maid is now Blanche Williams—an old-timer who has served Hedy Lamarr, Greer Garson, Eleanor Powell, Jean Harlow as well as many silent screen stars.

Claudette Colbert's Winifred isn't around the sound stages so much lately. For years she was on the Colbert set at all times, treating the star like a cross between a baby and a goddess and guarding her fiercely against anything Winifred considered an intrusion on the Colbert privacy. Then Winifred was married and retired from service. Two months later her husband died suddenly, and for a while Winifred was too ill to work. But she's back with Claudette now, and the relationship is the same—except that now it's Claudette who protects Winifred from over-exertion.

The value of honey and wax produced in Canada in 1941 was $3,276,200.

Maj. Gen. Kenney Succeeds Gen. Brett

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEAD-QUARTERS, Wednesday, Sept. 16. (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur today announced that Major General G. C. Kenney had been appointed commander of Allied air forces in the Southwest Pacific, succeeding Lieut.

150 Students Are Expected To Enroll
At State TeachersFrostburg College Will Offer Emergency Courses,
Dunkle Says

FROSTBURG, Sept. 16—The enrollment at Frostburg State Teachers college today indicated that approximately 150 students will report for classes after the summer session. The college will report for classes after the summer session. The college will report for classes after the summer session.

The college will offer to its students and to the community a number of emergency services during the coming year in order to make as high contribution to the war as possible, Dunkle said. Full announcements of the program in physical education and health, in aid, and in scout training work will be made in the next few weeks.

In order that the juniors may be equipped for cadet service during the school year of 1943, they are being scheduled for their practice during the present year. In addition to the campus school, some off-campus centers will be used in the public schools of Allegany county through the co-operation of Dr. Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools.

The college elementary school enrollment in the five rooms covering six grades totals 170. This gives campus enrollment for the college its training school of 320.

The freshmen entering in 1942 in June or in September, will be available for teaching service in the fall of 1945. The accelerated program at the college will be continued throughout the emergency so that students will be able to complete their work a year ahead of time.

Engagement Revealed

Mrs. Ruth Cavey, this city, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Esther Cavey, to Mr. Skidmore, son of Mrs. Ida Skidmore and the late Elias Skidmore, of Eden Mines. The wedding will take place Friday, September 25, at 2 p. m. at the Welsh Baptist Memorial church, with the Rev. W. D. Reese, pastor, officiating.

Pioneer Club Elects

Mrs. Elsie Williams was elected president of the Pioneer Club at the annual election of officers held Sunday evening at the home of Mrs. Helen Jeffries, Ormond street. Others elected to serve with her were Miss Louise Palmer, vice-president; Mrs. Alice Krieger, secretary; Mrs. Marion Skidmore, Mrs. Edred and Miss Elizabeth Workman, members of the sick committee. Mrs. William Walsh will entertain the club Friday evening, September 18.

Kating Rink Robbed

Gaining entrance through a window, a person or persons looted equipment and stole a large amount of candy and soft drinks in the J. R. U. A. M. skating rink, Frostburg, Friday evening, Harry Lewis, janitor, reported today.

Lewis said records used in the phonograph which furnishes music for the skating were broken and a record speaker, part of the phonograph, was destroyed. Much of the candy and soft drinks were taken, he said but no estimate could be placed until Albert Capel, who operates the rink for the benefit of the Frostburg council, has investigated.

Lewis said he didn't know if the skating equipment was distributed. Entrance was gained by breaking a window in the rear of the rink. The theft was the fourth in the past several months.

Lewis said city police had been notified and were investigating.

Announce Marriage Banns

The banns of marriage were announced Sunday morning, for the second time between Joseph Lavin, of Paul's parish, Baltimore, and Rita Chabot of St. Michael's parish.

Frostburg Briefs

The Ladies Aid Society of First Presbyterian church, Bowers street, will hold a public covered dish supper Thursday evening, from 7 to 7 o'clock, in the social hall of the church.

The annual Harvest Home Festival of Salem Evangelical and Reformed church will be celebrated Sunday morning, 10:45 o'clock, in connection with the usual morning service.

St. Roy L. Kallmyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kallmyer, of Edgewood, Md., has been transferred to Edgewood Arsenal, Md., where he will attend officers' training school.

Gas Rationing
Cards Will Be
Inspected SoonHolders of C Permits Will Be Investigated in Hardy County

MOOREFIELD, Sept. 15—Holders of C cards for gasoline rationing in Hardy county may be investigated, according to the information received at the office of the ration board in the weekly report. A special investigator from the Charleston office of the OPA will be in Moorefield within the next ten days to check up on some of the C card holders.

Bryan Shepp, head of the office of the ration board, stated that the office hours would be from 9 until 3 o'clock daily with the office remaining open each Wednesday night from 7 until 9 o'clock. The evening hours were adopted to accommodate those who are unable to get in during the day.

Certificates for passenger tire re-treads were issued to the following persons during the past week: Russell D. Keller, Mathias, two; Lot Evans, Fabius, one; Orphan Sees, Moorefield, two; Roland Combs, Needmore, four; Harold N. Bean, Inkerman, three. Truck re-treads were issued to Ethel Morrison, Baker, three; and J. Natwick & Co., Moorefield, two.

New truck tires were issued to H. L. Wise, Rio, two; M. W. Bean, Moorefield, one; Marvin F. Souder, Mathias, two; Anton M. Keller, Fisher, two; H. Riley Hishman, Lost River, one; Grover Evans, Moorefield, two; and H. H. Vetter, Moorefield, two.

The one passenger tire tube was issued to Richard A. Barr, Rig and two new passenger tire tubes were issued to Lot Evans, Fabius.

Wanted--Women To Sew

Mrs. Blanche W. Pownall, production chairman of the Hardy County Chapter of the Red Cross, issued an appeal for workers on the Red Cross sewing program. The women may come to the sewing room at Inskip Hall each Tuesday and Friday afternoon or they may take home the work to be completed.

There is a shortage of skirts and blouses in the county program and these may be secured at the headquarters for processing in the homes. Mrs. Pownall stated that only a few of the ladies were contributing time and work to the program and that it was more vital at this time than ever before.

All work completed will be counted in on the county quota.

Electricity Fails

Moorefield had an unscheduled blackout Saturday night when the power went off for about ten minutes near 8:30 o'clock. The power went off suddenly without the usual flickering warnings.

The trouble was caused by a short circuit when a youngster threw a stick across the Potomac Light and Power Company's lines.

Officials of the power company quickly located the trouble which occurred near the company office.

Addresses Women's Club

Attorney Ralph J. Bean chairman of the local Civilian Defense program, spoke to members of the Moorefield Federated Women's Club Monday night on "What Can I do in the Civilian Defense Program?" Bean outlined a series of things that every woman could do to help in the war effort and defense program.

First, convert the home into a War Time home by setting up and following a war budget, conserving food and supplies and giving unused scrap, junk rubber and such to the proper authorities. Second, to conserve rubber by walking when going to shop or market and leaving off the pleasure rides that are really unnecessary.

Third, don't be a Typhoid Mary of rumors, carrying rumors and disbelief in our government from one person to another. Fourth, cooperate with the Office of Civilian Defense by registering with them for work, and doing the things they request done.

Bean also explained need for a blackout in Hardy county and told the ladies what they must do. No one believes that Hardy county would be an Axis objective in a bombing raid but Hardy county might be in the position of the innocent bystander, treated as the dumping ground for excess bombs or as an object lesson in case enemy planes passed over our way on their way to Washington, Baltimore, Pittsburgh or other "big game." Bean outlined the routine to be followed when the fire siren gives the black out warning and then answered questions asked by the ladies.

Scrap Drive Planned

A house to house canvass will be made Friday in Moorefield by the state road commission trucks to pick up salvage and scrap metal for the Hardy County Junk campaign.

FROSTBURG, Sept. 16—The first hunting accident reported in Allegany county during the present season which opened Tuesday with open season on squirrels was a severe wound in the left leg, suffered by Oliver Lockard, 30, of 224 East Main street, Frostburg.

The Rev. John W. Wood
Terminates Pastorate at Presbyterian Church

KEYSER, W. Va., Sept. 16—The Rev. John W. Wood, pastor of the Keyser Presbyterian church for the past seventeen years will leave Friday for Washington, D. C., where he and Mrs. Wood will reside temporarily.

During the pastorate of the Rev. Mr. Wood, which began in October, 1925, the church was cleared of a large indebtedness incurred by the remodeling and interior decorating which was completed shortly before he accepted his charge.

Mrs. Wood, who came here with church and civic affairs. She completed the organization of a Bible study course in Keyser elementary and Limestone rural schools and has been supervising the gathering and compiling of historic data of Mineral county for a history to be published shortly.

The Rev. and Mrs. Wood's three children completed their high school training in Keyser.

The Rev. Robert Harvey at present is filling the pulpit of the church but a successor to the Rev. Mr. Wood has not been named.

Trooper Arrives

MICKEY ROONEY IS SUED FOR DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 16. (AP)—Young, cocksure Mickey Rooney, at 21 a veteran of nineteen years on the stage and screen, has been sued for divorce by his 19-year-old bride of eight months, Ava Gardner. She charged extreme cruelty but made no allegations.

She asked "reasonable alimony" and her share of community property, which she stated amounted to more than $200,000. She said Rooney earned $5,000 a week in the movies.

The action was filed by Mrs. Rooney's lawyer, A. Laurence Mitchell, with her mother, Mrs. Beatrice Gardner, acting as her guardian. The Rooneys were married Jan. 10 and separated Sept. 4, when Ava admitted "we were just unhappy together." Mickey still has not told his version of the parting.

Serving by Saving FOR VICTORY

As our nation's war production machine slides smoothly into high, efficient transportation becomes the vital plus factor that is needed to win.

Every minute, every man, every mile counts now as never before. And B & O's great army of employees is serving our country's armed forces to the limit by cutting down lost time — by reducing waste (on the job and in the home) — by saving precious cargo space through requesting capacity car loadings.

"Tish" Has Something New in Comedy Teams

Hollywood's "three musketeers," Marjorie Main, Zasu Pitts and Aline MacMahon, gathered for hilarious adventures in "Tish," which starts today at the Maryland theater, promise to add a new entry in the list of historic comedy teams of the past. Throughout the years, from the days of the first crude "flickers," comedy teams have arisen to become box office magnets and reap cinematic fame. Some became proverbial. As years went on new teams arose, and the older ones became cherished memories.

The first team to reap world fame was composed of rotund John Bunny and tall, angular Flora Finch. This was in the pioneer days, when pictures were no longer than two reels. They went through hilarious adventures, which would have probably continued to this day, so popular was the team, but for Bunny's untimely death. Miss Finch never found another partner, but remained in pictures as a character actress.

After Bunny's death the team idea lay dormant until Polly Moran and Charlie Murray revived it in the Keystone comedies. Later Miss Moran became a member of the first comedy team of talking pictures, with Marie Dressler. The two actresses, a study in contrasts, made "Reducing," "Prosperity," and many others. Miss Moran was the small, aggressive character, browbeating the huge, good-natured Miss Dressler.

Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton formed another famous comedy team with "We're in the Navy" and others of the series. Karl Dane and George K. Arthur, another study in contrasts, scored in "Rookies" and other feature comedies.

"Little Tokyo" Poses Problems for Producer

If Bryan Foy, producer, had waited before producing "Little Tokyo, U.S.A.," at Twentieth Century-Fox, Little Tokyo would have been Tiny Tokyo.

With government restrictions on set-building now placed at $5,000 per production, Foy would have had to eliminate more than half of the replica of Los Angeles' Japanese sector.

And for a while, too, Producer Foy didn't know how he was going to populate his Little Tokyo. Central Casting's lists are completely devoid of Japanese actors. There isn't a Japanese extra in the whole of Hollywood. But Foy exhausted the extra talent lists of Chinese and Koreans who, after much convincing, agreed to portray Japs.

Playing the top role as a man who battles a Japanese espionage ring in "Little Tokyo, U.S.A.," at the Strand theater, is husky Preston Foster, who has plenty of "Japs" in Twentieth Century-Fox's "Secret Agent of Japan." The feminine lead is handled by lovely Brenda Joyce.

A SCREEN BEAUTY

Here's the beauty of it all—Sheila Ryan, as she appears in "A-Haunting We Will Go." Twentieth Century-Fox's riotous comedy starring Laurel and Hardy, together with Dante, the world's greatest magician, and now at the Strand theater.

Mildred Coles Appears in "Scattergood" Film

Although "Scattergood" Meets Broadway is currently at the Garden theater, is the second picture of this series in which Mildred Coles has acted. It is the first in which her lovely face will be seen on the screen.

Miss Coles, a most attractive newcomer to pictures, was cast in the ingenue role of "Scattergood Pulls the Strings" and acted in it for a week. Then she was suddenly stricken with acute appendicitis and had to be rushed to the hospital. And the picture had to be started over again, this time with a friend of Miss Coles' in the lead, Susan Peters.

Mildred Coles has appeared as leading lady in two previous RKO Radio pictures, "Hurry, Charlie Hurry," and "Play Girl." It was her success in "Play Girl" that won her the role in the "Scattergood" series.

Rangebuster Pow-Wows Are Hollywood Legends

When Producer George Weeks, whose guiding hand is responsible for "Rock River Renegades," the latest Rangebuster hit opening at the Embassy theater for a three-day engagement, formed the now celebrated Rangebuster troupe less than two years ago, little did he realize that within a short while he and his boys would have started something that already has become a Hollywood legend.

Mr. Weeks, who knows more than a little about turning out pictures with audience appeal, felt that a little more intelligence used before a picture started in production, and a little less waste after the cameras started cranking would result in better shows, higher grosses and lots more satisfied customers. So when the Rangebusters started releasing for Monogram, Mr. Weeks inaugurated a policy that kicked all the Hollywood traces into the well-known ash heap.

Mr. Weeks idea was simplicity itself, he claimed, and still does, that everybody connected with the picture in a major way, was equally responsible for the picture's success and so, when the first drafts of the story to be filmed were brought in, Mr. Weeks rounded up Corrigan.

Cards Hold Two-Game Lead over Dodgers

White's Hurling Brings Redbirds 6 to 2 Triumph

Southpaw's Steady Pitching Gives St. Louis Victory over Braves

By BILL KING
BOSTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals protected their two-game National League lead by drubbing the Boston Braves 6 to 2 today behind the effective nine-inning pitching of Ernie White, their ailing southpaw.

Showing no ill effects from their furious home-stretch pace in the pennant race during which they have won thirty-three of their last thirty-nine games, the Redbirds climbed on Jim Tobin early, and were in front all the way as they handed him his twentieth defeat of the season.

Win Game in Sixth
Backing up White, they tagged Tobin for nine hits altogether, but they punched five of these in the sixth inning for a game-winning four-run rally to maintain their bulge over the second-place Brooklyn Dodgers, who got back into action with a victory today after taking two afternoons off.

The Red Birds lost little time setting the stage for the victory. Jimmy Brown opened the action in the first by singling sharply to right and then beating Paul Waner's slow throw to second. Stan Musial brought him home with a hit after two were away, and the Cards were off to the races. Enos Slaughter, the Cards' outfield powerhouse, smashed his thirteenth homer of the season out of the park with two away in the third to put the Birds in front 2-0.

Walker Starts Rally
With that edge to work on, White breezed along and showed no effects from the soreness, that has bothered his pitching arm for the past couple of weeks.

Harry Walker, out of the big rally by leading off with a single to center, and Slaughter followed with a base drive into left field. Musial's double to left brought in Walker, and two more tallies came over when Walker Cooper hit safely. The catcher got around to third as Fernandez's throw-in hit Musial on the back, and Whitey Kurowski then drove him over the plate by putting down a squeeze bunt that fooled Tobin. The box:

Athletics Rally To Top White Sox Twentieth Defeat, Losing 4-2 Decision

CHICAGO, Sept. 16 (AP)—The pitching misfortunes that have dogged Eddie Smith of the Chicago White Sox from the start of the season apparently are going to stick it out to the finish. Today he lost his twentieth game, a 4 to 2 decision that the Philadelphia Athletics grabbed with an eighth inning rally.

Until then Smith had held a 2-1 lead and appeared headed for his seventh triumph. The box:

Hartford's Willie Pep Looks Like Next Feather Champion to Lardner

By JOHN LARDNER
NEW YORK, Sept. 16—While penetrating the coastal plain of Connecticut to watch the nomination of Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce for Congress on the Republican ticket—Mrs. Luce noted out the opposition by 84 to 2—I heard much of Signor Guglielmo Papaleo, the latest boxing sensation to emerge from the region of the nutmegs.

Signor Papaleo is better known as Willie Pep. He will probably be still better known as Willie Pep before long, because he seems to be enroute to the world's featherweight championship. The only thing in his way, as far as I can see, is a slight extra robustness which makes his silhouette more lightweight than featherweight.

Hartford Likes Featherweight
Hartford, his home town, might prefer the featherweight title to the lightweight title, just for old time's sake. Hartford has produced more world's featherweight champions than you can wave a club at. It amounts to a civic tradition. And they do say that Mr. Pep, though he looked a trifle big when I saw him fight last week, can get down to the feather limit of 126 pounds without damaging himself, if need be.

If he can't, Hartford will just have to settle for the lightweight title. I do not see much in Willie's way to that one, either.

He is a rough, tough boy with forty-nine consecutive victories to his credit as a professional. He is fast, he can hit with both hands, and he seems to like to fight. The night I saw him he disposed of one Frank Francorneri in two minutes and seven seconds. Mr. Francorneri, just prior to this, had fought a close bout with Lulu Costantino, also a paid-up featherweight phenomenon in good standing. The experts have been guaranteeing Mr. Costantino the title for some time. What are they going to do about Mr. Pep?

Looks Unbeatable
To be sure, I don't want to start going out on limbs again on the strength of one quick look. That would be headstrong, intemperance, and the height of folly. So I take

Army All-Stars Rally To Defeat Dodgers, 13 to 7

Brooklyn's McAdams Steals Show but Soldiers Win before 45,000

By WILLIAM O. VARN
BALTIMORE, Sept. 16 (AP)—Fighting back with the dogged determination traditional of the service, the Eastern Army All-Stars came back from the brink of defeat tonight with a twinkling final period rally to trip the Brooklyn Dodgers 13 to 7 before an estimated 45,000 fans who cheered lustily the Soldier triumph.

For three periods the great Dean McAdams, one-time University of Washington star, played the game of his life, almost single-handedly spelling defeat for the well-coached Army eleven of Colonel Robert Neyland.

His tremendous punts throughout the hard fought first half kept the Soldiers away from the Dodger goal and in the second quarter he completely stole the show with a fireworks display of sharp shooting passes and dazzling runs leading the Brooklyn to a 7 to 0 lead at half time.

But the Army eleven that came back on the field for the third period was not to be denied.

Pingel's Passes Click

Captain John Pingel fired their spirits with some nifty passing of his own and he found a ready mark in the widespread arms of big Jack Russell, formerly of Baylor, Pingel, one-time Michigan State ace, fired one aerial after another that swept the professional eleven back to its goal line.

McAdams rescued the Dodgers twice with booming punts of better than fifty yards as the Dodgers made stands in the shadow of their uprisings. But when George Cagelo, an All-American while at Tennessee, where he played under Colonel Neyland, caught the Dodgers flat-footed with a perfect quick kick that rolled deep on the Brooklyn thirteen, the Soldiers were in that territory to stay.

Pug Manders, former Drake luminary fumbled for the Dodgers and Henry Stanton (Arizona), pounced on the pigskin. That was on the nineteen.

Standie Goes Over

Norm Standie, All-America at Stanford, and Cagelo carried it down to the two and Standie unleashed a power drive at center which tore the Brooklyn forward wall apart and he fell over the goal. Nick Bascia (Villanova) converted to tie the score.

Harvey Johnson, lithe back formerly of Mississippi State got into the picture. Teaming with Sam Bartholomew (Tennessee), he battered first one side of the Dodger line and then the other for four successive first downs to the Brooklyn seven.

Leonard Coffman, another former Tennessee star, picked up two. Cagelo drove to the two-yard stripe and Coffman dove over for the score. Bascia never got a chance to boot the placement but Army led 13 to 7. The Soldiers shook off a late Dodger threat and won their second victory over a pro eleven.

Terp Tackle Goes On Injured List

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 16 (AP)—Coach Clark Shaughnessy, who still is looking for line reserves to round out his University of Maryland squad, was given an unwanted opportunity to test some newcomers today when Reggy Vincent, right tackle, went on the injured list.

Vincent, first Maryland griddler on the No. 1 Red team to become a casualty, is nursing a recurrence of a knee injury suffered last season. He may be shelved for the rest of the week.

In the meantime, Oscar Dubois and John Lookabough of the No. 2 White team are getting some needed drilling in Vincent's place.

Trotters To Continue

GOSHEN, N. Y.—Harness horse racing will do business as usual next year with an estimated total of a quarter of a million dollars to be distributed among forty-two stakes, it was announced here by Will Gahagan, executive secretary of the Trotting Horse Club of America. The $40,000 Hambletonian classic heads the list of stakes.

Loughran Joins Marines

PHILADELPHIA—Tommy Loughran, 39, retired undefeated lightweight champion of the world and still in peak physical condition, was sworn in as a private in the marine corps. On Sept. 23 he will be sent to Parris Island, N. C. Marine base for training.

Jersey City Reaches International Loop Title Playoff Finals

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 16 (AP)—Jersey City, fourth place team in the regular season, climaxed its comeback today by whipping the pennant winning Newark Bears for the fourth straight time, 6 to 2, and moving into the final round of the International League playoffs.

Home Runs Carry Reds to Victory

Frank McCormick and Marshall Hit for Distance To Top Giants

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (AP)—Home runs by Frank McCormick and Max Marshall carried the Cincinnati Reds to a 3-1 victory over the New York Giants today, the Reds' sixth straight triumph on the current Eastern swing.

Paul Derringer, veteran right hander, held the third place Giants to four hits and was in trouble only in the seventh inning.

Bill Lohrman, usually a jinx for the Reds, was the victim of Cincinnati's home run assault. Marshall connected for his home in the first inning while McCormick sewed up the game with another in the seventh after an error by Babe Barna had put Marshall on base. The box:

Clarksburg Generals Defeat Westvaco 2-1

WESTERNPORT, Md., Sept. 16—The Clarksburg (W. Va.) Generals pulled a squeeze play in the last half of the ninth inning to score a run and defeat the Westvaco Local outfit of Westernport 2-1 this week at Clarksburg.

Successive singles by the Secret brothers and Street gave the Generals their other run in the first. "Bud" Mosser smashed a home run in the sixth for Westvaco's only tally.

Clarksburg won the game when Earl Orme tripled and scored when "Buddy" Garcia tapped the pellet for a bunt. Holly Mace, hurling for Clarksburg, held Westvaco to three hits while "Speed" Lambert of the locals was nipped for nine blows.

Harvey Johnson, lithe back formerly of Mississippi State got into the picture. Teaming with Sam Bartholomew (Tennessee), he battered first one side of the Dodger line and then the other for four successive first downs to the Brooklyn seven.

Leonard Coffman, another former Tennessee star, picked up two. Cagelo drove to the two-yard stripe and Coffman dove over for the score. Bascia never got a chance to boot the placement but Army led 13 to 7. The Soldiers shook off a late Dodger threat and won their second victory over a pro eleven.

Terp Tackle Goes On Injured List

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 16 (AP)—Coach Clark Shaughnessy, who still is looking for line reserves to round out his University of Maryland squad, was given an unwanted opportunity to test some newcomers today when Reggy Vincent, right tackle, went on the injured list.

Vincent, first Maryland griddler on the No. 1 Red team to become a casualty, is nursing a recurrence of a knee injury suffered last season. He may be shelved for the rest of the week.

In the meantime, Oscar Dubois and John Lookabough of the No. 2 White team are getting some needed drilling in Vincent's place.

Trotters To Continue

GOSHEN, N. Y.—Harness horse racing will do business as usual next year with an estimated total of a quarter of a million dollars to be distributed among forty-two stakes, it was announced here by Will Gahagan, executive secretary of the Trotting Horse Club of America. The $40,000 Hambletonian classic heads the list of stakes.

Loughran Joins Marines

PHILADELPHIA—Tommy Loughran, 39, retired undefeated lightweight champion of the world and still in peak physical condition, was sworn in as a private in the marine corps. On Sept. 23 he will be sent to Parris Island, N. C. Marine base for training.

Jersey City Reaches International Loop Title Playoff Finals

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 16 (AP)—Jersey City, fourth place team in the regular season, climaxed its comeback today by whipping the pennant winning Newark Bears for the fourth straight time, 6 to 2, and moving into the final round of the International League playoffs.

Brooklyn Trims Pirates To End Losing Streak

Flatbushers Drub Bucs 10-3 but Fail To Gain Ground on Cards

By WHITNEY MARTIN
BROOKLYN, Sept. 16 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers, standing idly by for two days as the St. Louis Cardinals boosted their National League lead to two full games, returned to action today to ease their sense of frustration and end a five-game losing streak at the expense of the hapless Pittsburgh Pirates.

Warmed up by a slight pre-game riot, Leo Durocher's team, although playing with one eye on the scoreboard watching the progress of the Cardinal-Boston game, managed to follow the offerings of a half dozen hurriers well enough to blast out nineteen hits and a 10 to 3 victory, to remain two games out of first place.

The pre-game scramble, during which the Dodger players swarmed into the box seats to get in their share of a battle between usher and a group of spectators, seemed to be just the tonic the Brooklynites needed.

Every Dodger Hit

They still were sizzling when Hank Gornicki served up the first pitch for the Bucs, and before the first inning was over the 13,066 slightly apprehensive fans sat back and relaxed.

Four hits, including Dolph Camilli's twenty

Sentinel Grid Runners Plan To Open Sept. 26

Coach Bill Hahn Says He Won't Cut Squad of 50

Lettermen Are Scarce—Romney or Thomas To Be Met in Lid-Lifter

Fort Hill high school gridgers, hard at work these days under the direction of their new coach, Bill Hahn, will open their 1942 campaign on Saturday, September 26, probably against Romney or Thomas high, it was announced last night by Hahn, who succeeded Johnny Long this fall as Sentinel grid mentor.

The Hilltoppers were sent through their first scrimmage on Tuesday while another followed yesterday. Coach Hahn said a few plays have been tried and that he is gradually getting a better line on the boys.

Still seeking the best combinations, Hahn said he doesn't plan to do any cutting. About fifty boys are working out and the Scarlet and White tutor stated that "I don't want to lose any prospects."

Long, in spring drills, instructed the Sentinel squad in rudiments of the "T" formation but Hahn won't use that type of offensive play. "I'm still working on our style of attack," Hahn said.

Fort Hill was left without a foe to open on September 26 when Keyser high cancelled. Hahn expected to hear from Romney yesterday regarding the date and if nothing is forthcoming soon from Romney, then Thomas, which is interested, may be met in the lid-lifter, which will be played here.

CVAL Opener on Oct. 17

On Saturday, October 17, Ridgeley will be met in a daylight contest with Berkeley Springs coming here the following Friday, October 9, for a night tussle.

The Sentinels will open their Cumberland Valley Athletic League campaign against the Bulldogs of Martinsburg high on October 17 in the West Virginia town. LaSalle will be opposed in a night clash on Friday, October 23; Handley of Winchester, Va., will come here Saturday, October 31, for a daylight CVAL encounter; Franklin (W. Va.) high is down tentatively for an appearance here Saturday, November 7; Hagerstown will, on November 14, for a CVAL encounter and the Sentinels will close their season against Allegany in the annual Thanksgiving day classic on November 26.

Lettermen are scarce at the Hilltop school this year. Only three letter winners—Ends Fred Davis and Gene Gilpin and Kenny Bridges, a back, took part in spring drills. Wallace Troutman, husky lineman; Merle Orndorff and Ray Baker, all either lettermen or reserves of experience, missed the spring sessions for various reasons but are now working out.

Several Not Available

A number of boys with experience who had been counted on heavily won't be available for various reasons. They include Frank McCreary, Ray Lapp, Marcellus Chaney and James Snyder, the latter having been rated a good prospect in the spring.

Leading candidates in spring drills, in addition to Davis, Gilpin and Kenny Bridges, included Warren Squires, O'Brien Calhoun, Joe Montelone, Don Whitman, Ed Lowery, Richard Hager and William Pitzer, backs; Charles True, Harvey Golden and Bill McBride, centers; Bill Menges, Don Martin, Jim Wilkins, Wayne Ansel, Paul Burley and Jim Burns, guards; Herman Brant, Dave Miller, Robert Green, Tommy Smith, Palmer Sullivan, Ernest Johnson, Stanford Zollner and Fred Johnson, tackles, and Don McGill, Richard Golden, William Taylor, Bill McKenzie and Mike LaGrotta, ends.

Brownies Blank Split Twin-Bill Bruins Take Over Fifth Place as Pittsburgh Johnny Niggeling Pitches Seven-Hitter To Best Joe Dobson

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 16. (AP)—Although there was nothing at stake in the matter of final standings, the third place St. Louis Browns shut out the Boston Red Sox 3 to 0, today on a seven-hitter by Johnny Niggeling.

It was Niggeling's sixth victory over Boston in seven starts this year. He was opposed by Joe Dobson, who also yielded seven hits. The box:

Pre-Flight Coach To Take Player Losses in Stride

St. Mary's Navy School Outfit Will Open Season Saturday

By RUSS NEWLAND

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 16. (AP)—Lt. Comdr. Gerald Oliver, who transferred from college football coaching to the war time job of building better fighting men along with a military gridiron team, has discovered the grass is no greener on the other side of the fence. The coach always is confronted with problems.

As headman of football at the St. Mary's Navy pre-flight school, Coach Oliver's material is composed of transients. When pre-flight training is finished the boys are supposed to shove off.

He probably will not experience the blow of having a class graduated during a game, yet within three weeks the best guard on the team will depart. Two weeks after that another first string lineman will be on his way. And the schedule has not even opened.

As coach at the University of Oregon, Oliver had an occasional fretting spell because an alumnus or two insisted he should win every game. On the college front, however, he never worried about losing players in numbers after they had once reported for practice.

Major League Schedule

But at the pre-flight school, as in other training centers, things are taken in stride. The football team will play a major league schedule and whether the men are as well grounded in fundamentals or know their assignments as well as the coach would like, they will be at physical peak. The athletic program takes care of that.

The St. Mary's training unit will be manned by cadets, the other by officers. Coach Oliver plans to alternate them in games.

The squad is almost entirely of Far Western origin with such exceptions as Lt. Ed Manske of Northwestern university and Chicago Bears professional experience, and Ensigns Joe Ruetz, Notre Dame, and Ed Nordstrom, Loyola of New Orleans, on the officers' team; and Tom Smith, Iowa State; Frank Velisek, Creighton, and Ivan Schottel, Marysville Teachers, Missouri, among the cadets.

The Notre Dame box and the T-formation will be business partners. Instead of rivals, for once. Coach Oliver is teaching both types of play, just as he did at Oregon. The T-formation will be in use when Ensign Frank Albert is in the lineup. He quarterbacked Stanford to the coast conference title and a Rose bowl victory over Nebraska two seasons ago, with the "T" trickery.

Opens Season Saturday

The officers' starting unit includes ends, Ed Manske, Northwestern and Eddie Erdelatz, St. Mary's; tackles, Larry Lutz, California and Ray George, Southern California; guards, Joe Ruetz, Notre Dame and Ed Nordstrom, Loyola of New Orleans; center, Dave Durrie, Washington State; quarterback, Nello Falaschi, Santa Clara, or Frank Albert, Stanford; left half, Chuck Pavliko, Santa Clara; right half, Boyd Morgan, Southern California, and fullback, Ken Gleason, Fresno State.

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Michigan has worked out quite a color scheme for hunters this season.

Resident hunters will wear back tags of orange in the small-game season, dark red tags in the deer season—unless they are archers, who will wear blue.

Yellow is the color for non-residents licensed to hunt small game throughout the state, fawn if they buy only the limited northern permit. Non-resident deer hunters will wear green if they hunt with guns, pink if they carry bows and arrows.

Calamity Slated To Open Season Sept. 26 against Glenville

KEYSER W. Va. Sept. 16.—Football will remain on the sports schedule of Potomac State, according to Athletic Director and Coach Dana 'Horse' Lough in announcement today.

A half-dozen of West Virginia's four-year colleges, including two opponents on Potomac's original schedule, have abandoned football for the duration.

The Catamounts started practice early this week with twenty candidates reporting to Lough. Six of the boys haven't had previous grid experience but Lough said he expects to have about twenty-five boys with scholastic football backgrounds on the squad before the end of the week.

Potomac State was left with open dates when two state rivals, Shepherd and Concord dropped football recently. Lough has found it necessary to cancel the October 10 contest with Ithaca college at Ithaca, N. Y. because of transportation difficulties.

Fairmont State has been added for two games on October 17 and 24 and Lough hopes to complete his program by booking contests with Mt. St. Mary's and one of the Army camp teams of the Maryland-District of Columbia section.

The Catamounts will open here Saturday, September 26, against Glenville and are booked to meet West Liberty at Wheeling on October 2. The sites of the Fairmont games have not been definitely decided but one will be played here and one at Fairmont.

Lough hopes to schedule Mt. St. Mary's for a game October 31, and if transportation can be secured, the Cats will oppose West Virginia Tech at Montgomery, W. Va., on Armistice day, November 11, in their final game.

Plenty of Bad Breaks

NEW YORK (AP)—Mar-yan McCarthy, Canadian skater who performs in the Ice Capades, has suffered a total of forty-two divers fractures during his career in sports and in the entertainment field. He held the record for all distances of speed skating in Western Canada for eleven years, and was a member of the Canadian Olympic team in 1932. Since turning pro in 1933 he has broken nineteen world records.

Michigan Set Style

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Michigan has worked out quite a color scheme for hunters this season.

Resident hunters will wear back tags of orange in the small-game season, dark red tags in the deer season—unless they are archers, who will wear blue.

Yellow is the color for non-residents licensed to hunt small game throughout the state, fawn if they buy only the limited northern permit. Non-resident deer hunters will wear green if they hunt with guns, pink if they carry bows and arrows.

Calamity Slated To Open Season Sept. 26 against Glenville

KEYSER W. Va. Sept. 16.—Football will remain on the sports schedule of Potomac State, according to Athletic Director and Coach Dana 'Horse' Lough in announcement today.

A half-dozen of West Virginia's four-year colleges, including two opponents on Potomac's original schedule, have abandoned football for the duration.

The Catamounts started practice early this week with twenty candidates reporting to Lough. Six of the boys haven't had previous grid experience but Lough said he expects to have about twenty-five boys with scholastic football backgrounds on the squad before the end of the week.

Potomac State was left with open dates when two state rivals, Shepherd and Concord dropped football recently. Lough has found it necessary to cancel the October 10 contest with Ithaca college at Ithaca, N. Y. because of transportation difficulties.

Fairmont State has been added for two games on October 17 and 24 and Lough hopes to complete his program by booking contests with Mt. St. Mary's and one of the Army camp teams of the Maryland-District of Columbia section.

UNUSUAL TRUMP SUITS
IF YOUR side has only seven trumps—especially with only a four-card suit opposite three—you are in a pretty mean situation. Not only is there danger that the longer hand may have to ruff early, and so be cut down to only three while one defender has four, but there is the extra danger that they may take an unpleasant number of tricks by ruffing with their trumps, even if each has exactly three. At times, you have to strive with such a trump suit, but it will pay you to pick some other declaration, generally, if you can find a sound one.

East 1 Pass West 1 Pass North 1 Pass South 2 Pass

Looking at that hand, you would hardly guess that North and South would get four tricks out of their trump holding, but they did. Private Phil Abrams, of the United States Army, sitting South, had as his partner in the North, Tobias Stone, one of New York's most brilliant young players, and they were taking part in the recent Nationals.

Naturally, the soldier led the 10 of his mate's spades. After the K and A won, the Q was ruffed by East's diamond 10 and over-ruffed by the Army man's Q. The heart A and 2 to the J put declarer into dummy, whence he sent through the club J to the K. Another heart, to the K, made declarer lead. He picked the trump K to the A, and North fired back a low spade toward the J. East discarded a good club, and the diamond 8 scored.

Next a club made East lead again. He had two trumps and a good club. He led the diamond J, hoping to drop the two missing ones, but North had both. He scored one on the twelfth trick, ruffing the club Q, and gave East the last trick with a spade to the diamond 3. The defenders put him down three, getting regular trump tricks with the A and 9, ruffs with the Q and 8, two spade tricks and one each in the other two suits.

After South opens this deal with 1-Heart, what good reason might North have, in a match-point pair tournament, for failing to raise the suit with four trumps and preferring a bid of 1-Spade instead?

In Memoriam
In memory of Mr. Jerome A. Breighner, who died one year ago, September 16th, 1941.
Sad and sudden was the call.
Of one so dearly loved by all.
A bitter grief, a shock severe,
It was to part with one so dear.
We often sit and think of you,
And speak of how you lived.
To think you could not say goodbye,
Before you closed your eyes.
For all of us you did your best.
Oh, God, grant you Eternal Rest.
Sadly missed by
HIS DAUGHTERS.

Winfred C. George Dies of Injuries In Head-on Crash

Hazelwood Company Official and Two Others Killed Near Ghent

Four Others Injured as Cars Collide; State Police Investigate

Winfred C. "Win" George, 40, vice-president and general field superintendent for the Hazelwood Company, of Cumberland, and two other men were killed and four other persons were injured yesterday when two automobiles collided on State Route 19-21, one mile north of Ghent, fourteen miles from Beckley, W. Va., according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Others who died as a result of the accident are:

Charles Wilbur, 60, of Cool Ridge, Raleigh county.

Kenneth William Lucas, 39, of Princeton, W. Va.

Four Suffer Injuries

The injured:

Jabe Lilly, 21, of Cool Ridge, head lacerations, broken leg, condition good.

Evie Lilly, 18, of Cool Ridge, head lacerations, broken leg, condition serious.

Clyde Crawford, 20, Ghent, both legs fractured, condition fair.

Emmett Crawford, 18, Ghent, head lacerations and body abrasions, condition fair.

According to the Associated Press, Trooper C. H. Padden, of the Beckley State Police detachment, said the cars "apparently collided head-on on a curve." He stated that Jabe Lilly was believed to be the driver of one car and Lucas was operating the vehicle in which George was a passenger.

The Lilly car "appeared to be on the wrong side of the road," Padden said.

The officer stated that no charges had been preferred.

Moved to Virginia

"Win" George, his wife who was Miss Beulah B. Weber, and their two daughters, Barbara Joan, twelve, and Bonnie Wyn, two, have been residing at Narrows, Va., for the past eighteen months since the former went there to supervise construction work at the plant of the Celanese Corporation of America.

In recent months George has been in charge of construction work at a new war industry at Cowen, W. Va., and the erection of a power plant at Glen Lyn, Va. A former resident of Cumberland, he has been employed by The George F. Hazelwood Company for approximately sixteen years and has supervised the company's larger construction jobs including the Hancock bridge, the Front Royal, Va., bridges and plant extensions of the Celanese Corporation of America.

Kenneth William Lucas, who also was killed in the crash, was plumbing contractor for a number of the Hazelwood construction projects.

Surviving besides his widow and two children, George leaves, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse B. George, 623 Yale street; two brothers, William, of this city, and Edward, now employed on a construction project at Glen Lyn, Va., and two sisters, Miss Virginia George and Mrs. Betty Wakefield, also of Cumberland.

NYA CUTS EMPLOYMENT 70 PER CENT IN YEAR, STEIDING ANNOUNCES

NYA employment in Allegany county has been reduced approximately seventy per cent in the past year, according to E. Price Steiding, Lonaconing master project manager.

One year ago about 700 were employed in National Youth Administration projects in Allegany county and at the present time approximately 223 are at work in three shops.

Steiding estimated that eighty youths are employed in the machine and sheet metal shop here, seventy in the machine and sheet metal shop in Froeburg and seventy-four in the Lonaconing wood working shop.

A cut made by Congress in the NYA appropriation brought about a reduction in employment and many youths who received training under the NYA program have taken up jobs in vital war industries.

In fact, Steiding states that there are not many unemployed youths at the present time.

Scrap Collection in Rural Areas Will Be Discussed

Collection of scrap from rural sections of Allegany county will be planned at a meeting to be held at 8 o'clock Friday night in the chamber of commerce office, Ralph P. McHenry, county agent, chairman of the committee in charge, said yesterday.

Members of the committee include Bart J. Lyons, Leo T. Downey, John H. Carscadden, Porter D. Collins, John R. Wilkinson, J. P. Richards, W. Donald Smith, Harold W. Smith and Miss Maude A. Bean.

Motorist Is Charged With Careless Driving

Wilbur Edward Vogle, 216 Piedmont avenue, was arrested at 7:05 p. m. yesterday by Officer G. E. Williams for careless driving. Vogle was arrested in North Cumberland. He will be given a hearing in police court this morning.

Chatter

Maryland's ham radio operators, using home-made sending and receiving sets that the experts said couldn't be built without priorities for critical materials, have established the ground work for an emergency radio network that will cover every town, hospital and defense plant in the state.

Under the direction of Thomas F. McNulty, director of the War Emergency Radio Service of the Maryland Council of Defense, the amateur operators are creating an alternate system of radio communication to supplement the telephone system used by the civilian defense councils.

To date eight counties—considered key units in the defense of the State—have been tied into the network. One hundred and ten amateur operators have been enlisted.

They have built short wave sets from old broadcast receivers donated by radio owners throughout the state.

In addition to Baltimore City, the eight counties that are ready to function in the radio network are Allegany, Caroline, Queen Anne, Wicomico, Dorchester, Baltimore, Talbot and Prince George.

Francis Davis, one of Frostburg's fine Welshmen and for many years one of Allegany county's best known singers, received a letter this week from his sister, who resides at 2 Richards Terrace, Tonypandy, Glamorganshire, South Wales, which is replete with interesting references to various phases of life in the British Islands.

"The film, How Green Is My Valley, his sister, writes is still being shown to crowded houses here. I am not surprised to hear you say you could not locate the views in the film, for I think the views are not real, although the photographers had been to Gilvach Goch to take some snaps, but the film was really taken in America.

"The local miners criticize the film very unkindly, for they feel that the film should have been taken in Llantrisant and Gllfach and that the modern machinery used in olden times becomes a farce, anyhow."

Discussing the war, she says, "We have quite a number of American soldiers here, and every effort is being made to make them feel at home, for they are invited to come in for a cup of tea, so that they not allowed to feel that they are left in the cold.

"We cannot complain about the amount of bombings we have had here, and I do hope that we shall not get any better acquainted with it. It seems that the black-out is most uncomfortable, just a case where the cure is worse than the complaint.

"Rubber is certainly short and it affects the running of cars. We shall have to forget all about pleasure trips by car until after the war. It started with rationing of petrol, but to overcome that difficulty gas producing plants were installed and to a smaller extent steam driven cars, but all these different ideas involved the use of rubber tires, so that is all done away with now. So for the present, we can put the car in cold storage."

Charles E. Morris was elected president of the Western Maryland Coin Club at the annual meeting of the organization last evening at the Central Y.M.C.A. The retiring president is Martin L. Johnson.

Arthur G. Fuller was elected vice-president and Charles H. Hyde was re-elected secretary.

The newly elected officers will be installed at a dinner meeting Wednesday, October 21, at the Ali Ghian Shrine Country Club, Baltimore pike.

The club will begin its fifth year next month.

Gustavus Warfield, Of LaVale, Is Ordained in N. Y.

Ordination and installation services were held for Gustavus Warfield, in the First Presbyterian church, Cooperstown, N. Y., Sept. 9, by the Presbytery of Otsego. The Rev. David H. Murray, Moderator of the Otsego Presbytery, presided.

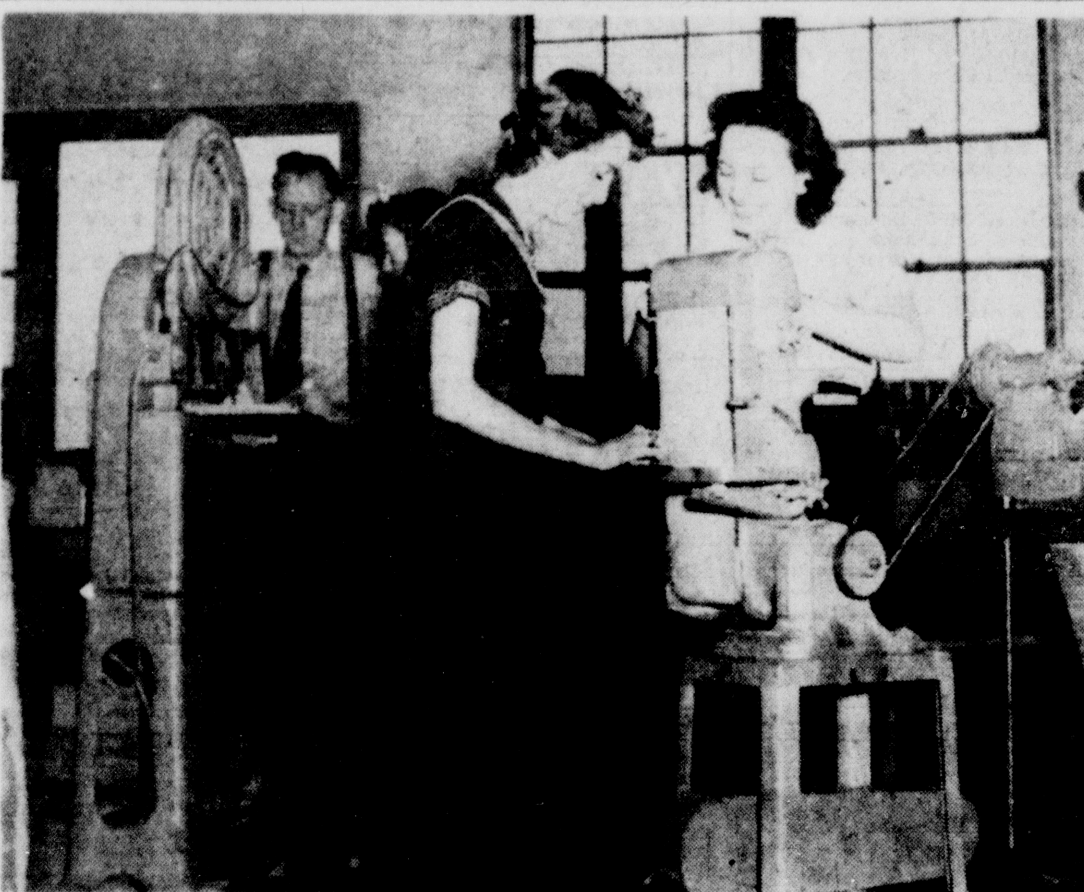

The Rev. Mr. Warfield was graduated from Princeton Seminary in June, and accepted the charge in Cooperstown in July. He is the son of Mrs. Eleanor Warfield, formerly of LaVale and is a graduate of Allegany high school. He married Miss Mary Lee Ross, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Ross, of this city, in June, 1940.

B. and O. Worker Hurt

Howard J. Reckley, 18, of 1201 Bedford street, suffered a one-inch laceration above the left eye yesterday when struck by a bolt at the B. and O. railroad backshops. He was treated at Memorial hospital and released.

PIONEERS AT WORK—Allegany county's largest high school is the pioneer in Maryland for training girls for work in war industry. Four of a beginners' class of twenty-three are shown at work at lathes in the Fort Hill wood working shop as the course got under way yesterday. Miss Phyllis Sampson, shown in the left foreground, is turning a cylinder and on her left observing is Miss Velma Beall. In the left background is Miss Shelya Koonz operating a lathe with Miss Dorothy Rummel as observer. The course includes twelve weeks of wood work, twelve weeks of mechanical drawing and a similar number of weeks of machine shop work. Thomas R. Hinds is machine shop instructor and John Ferguson will teach blue print reading and mechanical drawing.

Guard Chaplain Named Military Ball Chairman

The Rev. D. C. Clark Heads Group for Anniversary Event October 7

The Rev. David Cartwright Clark, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal church, and chaplain of the Eighth Battalion of the Maryland State Guard, last evening was elected general chairman for the military ball which will be staged by the Cumberland companies of the Maryland State Guard, Wednesday, October 7, at the state armory.

First Lt. Wesley H. Abrams, of Company C, and First Lt. Anthony Monahan, of Company D, were named co-chairmen. The committee also will comprise Mess Sgt. William J. O'Braden, of Company C, Mess Sgt. Jack Towler, of Company D, and two sergeants, corporals, privates and privates first class of each company.

Invitations will be distributed among the men of both companies and will be limited to company members, their wives and sweethearts and another couple of their own selection. Invitations also will be forwarded to officers of the Eighth battalion.

Dancing will hold sway from 9 p. m. until midnight and luncheon will be served.

The ball will be held in honor of the first anniversary of the local companies of the state guard.

Local Pastor Is Transferred to Hyndman

The Rev. C. E. Miller, pastor of Bethel Evangelical church, Cumberland, will leave shortly to assume his duties as pastor of the Hyndman Evangelical church.

The Rev. Mr. Miller will succeed the Rev. C. T. Miller, who will be transferred to Portage, Pa. Announcement of the transfers were made at the Pittsburgh Conference of the Evangelical church, held in Johnstown from September 9 to 13.

According to the conference announcement the Rev. C. H. Loyer will become pastor at the Bethel church.

Industrial Arts Course for Girls Becomes Contagious, Hinds Says

Other Fort Hill Students Would Like To Be Included in Program

Introduction of an industrial arts course for senior girls at Fort Hill high school gives promise of being contagious in the opinion expressed by Thomas R. Hinds, machine shop instructor at the institution which inaugurated war work training yesterday.

"The new program was set up to include only seniors," Hinds declared, "but other students in the school are inquiring if the project will be expanded to include them."

"I am sure the seniors will like this type of school work because at the conclusion of the course the girls will receive one and a half credits toward their high school graduation and they will have sufficient training for work in war industries."

Twenty-three seniors received instructions yesterday as the course got under way with John Garmon, instructor of the wood working shop, in charge. Classes will be held daily from 1 to 3 p. m.

Those taking Course

Those who reported on opening day included:

Genery Richter, Dorothy Williams, Juanita Shafer, Reba Deter, Dorothy McCormick, Emma Jean Valentine, Hazel Straderman, Dorothy Rummel, Shelya Koonz, Lorna Springer, Virginia House, Phyllis Sampson, Lillian Breighner.

Maxine Adams, Wanda Brewer, Margaret Morris, Betty Cox, Jessie Brinkman, Evelyn Michael, Gertrude Twigg, Ruth Beck, Velma Beall and Norma Beeche.

Girls Must Wear Slacks

When the course gets going in full swing all girls will be required to wear slacks. A number of the seniors sported slacks yesterday for the opening class.

Garmon stated that under his supervision aircraft woodworking will be taught to enable students to qualify for employment in aircraft factories when they are dismissed next spring. All of the girls will be eighteen years old at graduation time.

In discussing the fact that women are replacing men in a majority of the war industries, Garmon stated

Paulette Goddard Will Dedicate Service Honor Roll

Public Ceremony To Be Held Monday Morning after Victory Breakfast

Dedication by Miss Paulette Goddard, motion picture actress, of an honor roll, prepared for Cumberland men in the armed services of the United States by the junior association of commerce, will feature the war bond and stamp rally to be held here Monday morning, John R. Wilkinson, member of the publicity committee, announced last night.

Dedication of the honor roll will be in the nature of a public ceremony at 10 a. m. and will be held at the site of the Centre street explosion where a bond stand will be erected.

The honor roll is forty-eight feet long and bears the names of 2,200 men who were induced or who enlisted in the service. It was conceived and executed by the junior association. Albert O. Humbertson is chairman of the committee.

The ceremony will begin at 10 a. m. and will follow a victory breakfast to be held in Central Y.M.C.A. A bond stand will be erected at the site of the explosion and Centre street will be closed to traffic at 10 o'clock.

This month the bond drive is sponsored by the nation's motion picture industry and the committee in charge locally has expressed hope that the rally Monday will exceed the July drive, known nationally as "Retailers for Victory" month.

Admission to the bond breakfast to be held at 8:30 a. m., is the purchase of at least a $100 war bond. There also is a nominal charge for the breakfast which will consist of coffee and doughnuts. The breakfast will be served by the Ladies Auxiliary of Central Y.M.C.A.

The dedication and bond rally will begin at 10 a. m. and last for approximately one hour. At the breakfast, Miss Goddard will autograph bond folders for persons who attend, and at the rally she will again autograph bond folders for purchases made there.

Oscar A. Eyerman, chief of police and Ralph L. Rizer are in charge of street arrangements and erection of the bond stand.

5 Damage Suits Are Filed Here

Four Are against Floyd T. Grapes as a Result of Truck-Car Crash

Five suits were filed in circuit court yesterday for damages as a result of automotive accidents.

Four of the suits were filed against Floyd T. Grapes, local transfer man, for damages resulting from a collision of his truck and a car driven by Howard Preston Arnold at the intersection of Federal street and Virginia avenue.

Those injured in the crash, according to the bill of complaint, were Louise Strauderman, Robert Lee Strauderman and Ronald Arnold. Mrs. Strauderman suffered back and shoulder injuries and had several teeth broken off, the bill stated while Ronald Arnold suffered a laceration of the head.

The car, owned by Howard Preston Arnold, was badly damaged. Four individual suits were filed. Morgan C. Harris, attorney, represents the plaintiffs.

Another suit was filed by Mrs. J. C. Danks, of Lonaconing, against Dr. Herbert V. Deming for injuries suffered in a crash between cars owned by Dr. Deming and Mrs. Danks. Mrs. Danks is the wife of J. C. Danks, chiropractor, Morgan C. Harris, attorney, represents Mrs. Danks.

3 Divorce Suits Are Filed Here

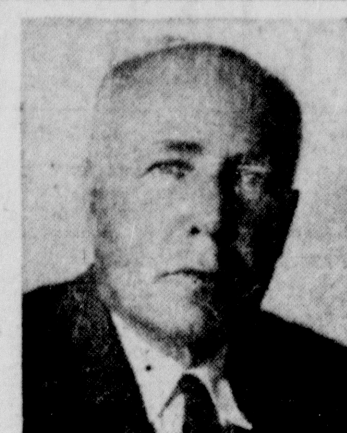

Three divorce suits were filed in circuit court yesterday with the plaintiffs asking for absolute severance of the marital bond.

Warren Clyde Teter, this city, filed suit against Nellie May Teter, of Thornwood, W. Va., on a charge of desertion. The bill states the couple was married September 19, 1933, at Marlinton, W. Va., and that no children were born of the marriage. He alleges that his wife left him in September, 1936. Morgan C. Harris, attorney, represents the plaintiff.

An absolute divorce was asked by Evelyn J. Kidwell, of Moscow, from Thomas G. Kidwell, of Reedsburg, Wisconsin. The bill states they were married September 17, 1938, at Eckhart and lived together until February 18, 1941, when they separated. After a reconciliation on August 23, 1941, he allegedly left for Louisiana promising to send for her.

The couple has one child whom the mother asks custody of and she also asks alimony. Noel Speir Cook, attorney, is counsel for Mrs. Kidwell.

Wilma Jeffries asks an absolute divorce from Alfred Jeffries and custody of their three children. Both parties in the suit live in Midland. They were married March 2, 1932, in Lonaconing and separated in September, 1942. Edward J. Ryan, attorney, represents the plaintiff.

NEW B. AND O. DIRECTOR—Crispin Oglebay, president of Oglebay, Norton and Company since 1924, was elected a director of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company at a meeting of the railroad's board yesterday in New York. Oglebay is a native of Wheeling, W. Va., and was graduated from Yale university in 1900. He is also a trustee of Western Reserve university and the Cleveland Museum of Natural History. In 1941, Oglebay was awarded the honorary degree of doctor of laws by Bethany college, W. Va.

Oglebay Elected B and O Director

Cleveland Man Is Chosen by Railroad's Board at New York Meeting

Crispin Oglebay, president of Oglebay, Norton and Company, of Cleveland, Ohio, was elected a director of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company at a meeting of the railroad's board in New York yesterday.

Born in Wheeling, W. Va., in 1876, Oglebay was graduated from Yale university in 1900, and began his business career at Kansas City, Mo., as a clerk. In 1903, he moved to Cleveland to become secretary of the Hoffman Hinge and Foundry Company, and in 1906, when that organization became the Ferro Machine and Foundry Company, Oglebay was made its president.

He has been president of Oglebay, Norton since 1924. This firm, with its associated companies, mines and transports raw materials for the metallurgical, ceramic and chemical industries.

Oglebay is active in civic, scientific and educational projects. He is a trustee and benefactor of Oglebay Institute at Wheeling, which has become nationally known as a cultural center. He is also trustee of Western Reserve university and the Cleveland Museum of Natural History, and was awarded the honorary degree of doctor of laws by Bethany college, W. Va., in 1941, and by West Virginia university this year.

Corp. Max Gerson Sends Reply to Letter League

Thanks Local Group for Sending Servicemen News from Home

Replies have begun coming in from men in service who received a copy of the Victory Air Mail letter sent September 3, to soldiers, sailors, nurses and marines from Allegany county serving outside the United States. The letters are compiled and mailed by the Allegany Letter League each month.

Following is a typical letter of thanks. This one was received yesterday by William A. Gunter, one of the sponsors of the league, from Corp. Max Gerson.

"I received your victory letter and was sure glad to hear some local news. I know you went to a lot of trouble to print such letters for the fellows in service, and I want to be one that sends back his appreciation.

"I'll really be waiting for such letters every month. It really makes a fellow feel good to know that people back home haven't forgotten you.

"I can't tell you where I'm located, but it's hot and rains quite often. But everything in general is going along fine. My folks write me quite often, but it still makes a fellow feel at home, especially when he gets such a letter as you sent me.

"I really can't quite express myself on paper, but when and if I come home, I'll thank you personally.

"Why, I didn't know that Brooklyn was in first place. Now you know how far back in news I am.

"Well, so long and thanks a lot.

"CORP. MAX GERSON."

Any persons in Allegany county who have sons or relatives serving with the armed forces outside the United States, who have not already done so, should send the names and addresses of these men to the Allegany Letter League, 7 Washington street. There is no charge for the letters and they are sent as civic gesture by a group of local citizens.

Automobile, Truck Crash Kills One, Injures Four

Vehicles Sidewipe West of Keyser; Teacher Dies of Broken Neck

A Washington, D. C., school teacher was killed and four persons were injured, two seriously, when an automobile and an empty tow-and-a-half coal truck sideswiped on Route 50, eleven miles west of Keyser, W. Va., at 3 p. m. yesterday.

The dead man is Clark W. Minear, Heironimus, 27, Washington, driver of the pleasure car, Howard Rogers, Keyser funeral director, said a broken neck and shock caused his death about thirty minutes after the accident occurred. He also suffered from minor lacerations of his head and face.

Potomac Valley hospital, Keyser, listed the injured as:

Miss Irene Minear, 48, owner of the automobile. She is suffering from severe lacerations of the face and head. Her condition is serious. She is an aunt of Heironimus.

John Stewart Shahan, age undetermined, Newburg, W. Va., driver of the coal truck. His left arm was so badly mangled in the accident that it had to be amputated above the elbow. His condition is serious.

Mrs. Ray Becker, 39, Davis, W. Va., passenger in the car. She suffered lacerations of the scalp and was discharged from the hospital after treatment.

Evelyn Becker, 3, daughter of Mrs. Becker, who suffered a discolored eye, was also discharged after treatment.

Truck Slightly Damaged

Trooper R. R. Karkickoff, of the West Virginia State Police, said Heironimus was driving toward Keyser when his car met the west bound truck on Cornet curve. The vehicles sideswiped. The trooper said and practically demolished the automobile. The left side of the car, he added, was practically torn off. The truck was only slightly damaged.

C. C. Compton, Keyser justice of the peace and acting coroner, said Heironimus, nephew of Mrs. W. M. Faw, 505 Cumberland street, died before he was removed from the wreckage.

Trooper Karkickoff said no charges have been entered pending the outcome of the inquest. Compton said some testimony may be taken today but additional evidence cannot be obtained until Miss Minear and Shahan recover sufficiently to be questioned.

An uncle of the dead man, R. D. Heironimus, Davis, W. Va., said his nephew had been residing at his summer home in Davis for the past six weeks and commuting to a farm he owned near Elkins, W. Va. Miss Minear, who jointly owned the Davis residence with Heironimus, had been in Davis several months. She also is a Washington school teacher.

Worked for Government

Heironimus had been employed in scientific work by the government until about a year ago, his uncle said, when he began teaching. He received his bachelor of arts and masters degrees from the University of Maryland and was working for his Ph.D. at Harvard.

Heironimus's only immediate survivor is his mother, Mrs. Lina Heironimus, Washington. His father died a number of years ago.

Mrs. Becker, a neighbor of Heironimus and Mrs. Minear in Davis, was on the way to the new naval hospital, Bethesda, to visit her husband who has been in the United States Navy for twenty-one years.

Becker and his family resided in Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and he took part in the action against the Japanese when they attacked December 7. Mrs. Becker and their three children returned to this country about six months ago. Her husband was sent to the naval hospital about one month ago for medical treatment.
